Counsel for Defense and State Submit Arguments
After Morning Session of Court Devoted to Examination of Witnesses Who Differ as to Mentality of Prisoner Held for East End Woman's Murder.

DR. C. H. BAILEY SAYS MAN'S SANE;
LISBON PHYSICIAN IS DEFENSE WITNESS

Patrolman Chester Smith, Raymond Chambers,
Dr. F. F. Davis, Dr. J. W. Chetwynd, James
Young, Campbell Brown and Others Testify—Insanity Verdict Means Prisoner Will be Sent to Hospital at Lima.

The question of whether William A. Wolfe, East End clay miner, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Flora Dearth, Mulberry street restaurant owner, ast October 3, is sane or insane probably will be determined by a jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, late today.

Indications at 1 p. m. were the case would be placed in the hands of the jury shortly after 2 o'clock.

Attorney Walter W. Beck, of Lisbon, of the defense, began his argument shortly before noon. Early this afternoon, Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Hanley opened his argument. Judge Carl H. Smith, of Steubenville, before whom the case is being tried, limited each side to 45 minutes.

If Wolfe is declared sane, date will be set for his trial on the murder count. In the event that the jury finds him insane, he will be committed to the state hospital for criminal insane at Lima.

INSURE, ROTARY SPEAKER URGES

Frank Campbell Tells of Benefits of
"Nest Egg."

Declaring that life insurance is the answer to the question of a sound and secure safeguard of humanity, that 40,000,000 of the nation's people have created for themselves an average estate of $1,250 by investing a part of their savings in insurance, and pointing out that great wealth in itself is no guaranty of ultimate security,

Frank Campbell, district agent of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company, today explained the numerous benefits and advantages of a life insurance "nest egg" to approximately 60 members of the Rotary club at their noon luncheon meeting.

Mr. Campbell was chairman and speaker. Songs were led by Dr. R.
R. Bode, in the absence of Blaine Cochran. President T. V. Milligan announced that Clarence H. Collings, Rotary district governor, will be the speaker at next Tuesday's meetings.
Mr. Collings will also meet with the directors and committee heads of the club following the session.

Quoting Mark Twain's dis-sentiments upon "Man," Mr. Campbell pointed out that a frail structure man was, for after all, and led up to the assertion that "since man is such a frail and hapless creature, so beset by misadventures and disease, it surely behoves him to safeguard himself as best he may, and the answer to our question is life insurance."

Figures show 78,000,000 life insurance policies covering 40,000,000 people in the United States, representing one state of $50,000,000,000.

"One of the valuable by-products of life insurance is its effect upon the health and longevity of the whole people. There is in this country an av-

Floyd Zornes, 760 Sophia street, who, with his wife and three-year-old daughter, Eugenia, was injured in an automobile accident on the Lisbon-Salem road, about two miles north of Lisbon Friday morning, declared today that a car operated by a "Dr. Ben-chine.

Zornes said he swung into a ditch on the left side of the road, while traveling toward Salem, when he saw it was impossible to get around a truck as the physician's automobile approached from the top of a hill. He claimed the physician's car was travel-der the care of Dr. C. H. Bailey, asserts the motor of his car was dead

Dr. Biederwolf Returns
From Pittsburgh to Say

Evangelistic Campaign.

By T. T. JONES.

Functioning in mass formation for the last time the big 500 voice choir,
made up of singers from practically all of the churches of East Liverpool,
Chester and Newell, W. Va., edited and pleased with a sacred concert to almost a capacity audience at the Second and Washington streets' tabernacle on Monday night. William Mc-Ewan, Scottish tenor, who directed the chorus during the six-week revival
just closed, was in charge of the exercises.

Resplendent in blue and red ribbons,
the former indicating that 75 of them
had not missed a single engagement
during the now concluded campaign
and the latter registering one or more failures to be present, the members of the organization presented an attractive appearance.

Hymns that attracted in the presented moments of the recent series of meetings; special solos, trios and
quartettes, piano and cornet numbers;
victrola contributions, witty sallies
by the irrepressible wielder of the baton; the story of his conversion and finally brief remarks by Miss Wilma
E. Davis, woman worker, and Dr. W.
E. Biederwolf, the evangelist, who returned from a day in Pittsburgh for the event, formed a program that stood out in its appeal.

Listening with rapt attention, their countenances indicating their passing pleasure and the deep impressions of the sentiments incorporated in the various selections utilized, the hearers, nestling absently in the shyness zone of the huge auditorium, enjoyed from start to finish every feature of the occasion. Not a dull moment was had and, when it was all over, they with one accord appeared to think the evening's entertainment had scarcely begun.

FIRE MARSHAL AIDS INQUIRY INTO LOSS AT F. O. SMITH HOME

Gasoline is Scattered
Over Carpets in
Two Rooms.

MAN IS BURNED

Believe Enemy of Family Responsible
for Damage.

Deputy State Fire Marshal
Daniel Connors of Youngstown,
arrived here today to co-operate
with Fire Chief Thomas Bryan
in an investigation into a mysterious fire, which occurred in the home of Dr. Frank O.
Smith, chiropractor, in the east end of a double frame house at 240 West Fifth street, at 2:20
o'clock last Saturday morning.

Loss Covered By Insurance.

One man, Waldo Hall, a barber, employed in a Sixth street shop, who is a roomer in the Smith home, was slightly burned in the blaze, which fire officials suspect was of incendiary origin.

Gasoline was scattered over the carpets in the dining and living rooms
on the first floor, according to reports
made to fire officials, who are investigating the possibility of an enemy of
the Smith family being responsible.

Dr. Smith and his 13-year-old son
were visiting relatives in Pittsburgh
at the time of the fire. Mrs. Smith
was at home.

The blaze, which was discovered by James Naylor, a son of Peter Naylor,
owner of the property, and who resides in the west end of the building,
damaged the carpets in the two rooms
and the buffet in the dining room. The younger Naylor called the Central fire department.

The loss is fully covered by insurance.

the window frame.

Powell's right ear was cut off, one
eye destroyed, his right leg crushed

Dr. F. F. Davis, Dr. J. W. Chetwynd, James

Insanity Verdict Means Prisoner Will be Sent
to Hospital at Lima.

The question of whether William A. Wolfe, East End clay
miner, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Flora Dearth, Mulberry street restaurant owner, last October 3, is sane or insane probably will be determined by a jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, late today.

Indications at 1 p. m. were the case would be placed in the hands of the jury shortly after 2 o'clock.

Attorney Walter W. Beck, of Lisbon, of the defense, began his argument shortly before noon. Early this afternoon, Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Hanley opened his argument. Judge Carl H. Smith, of Steubenville, before whom the case is being tried, limited each side to 45 minutes.

If Wolfe is declared sane, date will be set for his trial on the murder count. In the event that the jury finds him insane, he will be committed to the state hospital for criminal insane at Lima.

made the first purchase and then issued an appeal to all citizens to sup-

Federation of Women's Clubs in the three-day campaign against tuber-

Christmas health seals," said the may-

Women's Clubs deserves the support of the public in this humanitarian movement."

Stop Autos Before Crossing Coasting Tracks, is Appeal

Chief of Police McDermott today appealed to automobile owners to ists to stop their cars at intersections of coasting tracks in order to determine whether sleds bearing boys and girls are on the way proved effective last year in re-chief.

500-VOICE McEWAN CHOIR GIVES SACRED CONCERT AS REVIVAL MEET ENDS

of Three Cities Offer Splendid Program.

LEADER TELLS OF CONVERSION

Dr. Biederwolf Returns
From Pittsburgh to Say
Goodbye Following
Evangelistic Campaign.

By T. T. JONES.

Functioning in mass formation for
the last time the big 500 voice choir,
made up of singers from practically
all of the churches of East Liverpool,
Chester and Newell, W. Va., edited and gleamed with a sacred concert to almost a capacity audience at the Second and Washington streets' tabernacle on Monday night. William Mc-Ewan, Scottish tenor, who directed the chorus during the six-week revival
just closed, was in charge of the exercises.

Resplendent in blue and red ribbons,
the former indicating that 75 of them
had not missed a single engagement
during the now concluded campaign
and the latter registering one or more failures to be present, the members of the organization presented an attractive appearance.

Hymns that attracted in the pre-sermon moments of the recent series
of meetings; special solos, trios and
quartettes, piano and cornet numbers;
victrola contributions, witty sallies
by the irrepressible wielder of the baton of the story of his conversion and finally brief remarks by Miss Wilma
E. Davis, woman worker, and Dr. W.
E. Biederwolf, the evangelist, who returned from a day in Pittsburgh for
the event, formed a program that
stood out in its appeal.

Listening with rapt attention, their countenances indicating their passing
pleasure and the deep impressions of the sentiments incorporated in the various selections utilized, the hearers, noting absorbedly in the shaviness some of the huge auditorium, enjoyed from start to finish every feature of the occasion. Not a dull moment was had, and when it was all over, they
with one accord appeared to think
the evening's entertainment had scarcely begun.

FIRE MARSHAL AIDS INQUIRY INTO LOSS AT F. O. SMITH HOME

Gasoline is Scattered
Over Carpets in
Two Rooms.

MAN IS BURNED

Believe Enemy of Family Responsible
for Damage.

Deputy State Fire Marshal
Daniel Connors of Youngstown,
arrived here today to co-operate
with Fire Chief Thomas Bryan
in an investigation into a mysterious fire, which occurred
in the home of Dr. Frank O.
Smith, chiropractor, in the east
end of a double frame house at 240 West Fifth street, at 2:20
o'clock last Saturday morning.

Loss Covered By Insurance

One man, Waldo Hall, a barber, employed in a Sixth street shop, who is a roomer in the Smith home, was slightly burned in the blaze, which
fire officials suspect was of incendiary origin.

Gasoline was scattered over the
carpets in the dining and living rooms
on the first floor, according to reports
made to fire officials, who are investigating the possibility of an enemy of
the Smith family being responsible.

Dr. Smith and his 13-year-old son
were visiting relatives in Pittsburgh
at the time of the fire. Mrs. Smith
was at home.

The blaze, which was discovered by
James Naylor, a son of Peter Naylor,
owner of the property, and who resides in the west end of the building,
damaged the carpets in the two rooms
and the buffet in the dining room. The younger Naylor called the Central
fire department.

The loss is fully covered by insurance.

AUTO SKIDS; 2 BOYS INJURED

Pedestrians Hurl'd Against Window in East Palestine.

Charles Deitz and William Powell, each aged about 15, today are suffering from serious injuries as a result of being hurled against one of the basement windows of the McGraw Tire plant, East Taggart street, East Palestine, when struck by a skidding automobile, driven by John Milbuck, aged 20, of Alliance.

The car struck Deitz, throwing him against Powell, who was forced into the window frame.

Powell's right ear was cut off, one
eye destroyed, his right leg crushed
and he is believed internally injured.
He was taken to the Salem hospital.

Twenty-five stitches were required to close gashes in the head of Deitz, who was also badly bruised.

Deitz is the son of G. W. Deitz, East Martin street, and Powell is the son of Howard Powell, East Taggart street.

The accident occurred when Mil-buck attempted to stop his automobile at the corner of James and East Taggart, to give a car, driven by Miss Fannie Butts, the right of way. The wheels skidded on the icy road.

Milbuck, after being summoned before Mayor Ferren, was released on $500 bond, furnished by his father.

REDUCE TAXES, SAYS COOLIDGE

Federal Budget Message Calls for Policy of Economy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Coolidge today told congress how to keep on reducing taxes. It can only be done, he said, by continuing the government's present policy of strict and unyielding economy.

Transmitting to congress the federal budget for the fiscal year 1925-26, the president revealed that a surplus of $67,000,000 is anticipated at the end of the current fiscal year on June 30, 1925, and that the surplus for the next year is expected to be nearly $74,000,000.

"We are now in the fourth year of our campaign for the reduction of the cost of government," the president said in a special message read in both houses this afternoon. And our aim is to reduce the burden of taxes. In this we have been successful. We are fast reducing our expenditures to a minimum consistent with efficient service. We have before us an estimated surplus of $67,000,000 for the current year and $74,000,000 for the next year. Shall we embark upon new projects involving expenditures which will prevent the accumulation of these expected surpluses, or shall we continue the campaign for economy? I am for economy. If we continue the campaign for economy we will pave the way for further reduction in taxes."

Oppose Special Session.
Mr. Coolidge added, however, that this promised reduction could not be effected immediately, and indicated that he was not in favor of tax problem being taken up by a special session of congress after March 4, as has been suggested in some quarters.

"Before it is undertaken," he explained, "we should know more definitely by actual operation, what our revenues will be under the present law, but the knowledge of our revenues under the existing law will avail us nothing if we embark upon any new large expenditure program."

In accordance with the president's economy campaign, the government's ordinary expenditures for the next fiscal year will be more than $60,000,000 less than they are this year. The total expenditures for 1925-26, including the payment of $1,300,000,000 toward the reduction of the public debt, will be $2,267,551,378, compared with $2,534,983,808 this year and $2,506,677,715 last year.

Nearly half of the saving to be effected will be in curbing the expenditures for the army and navy the estimate being $29,000,000 less than the amount spent this year.

agencies are changing this condition materially.

Cites Gain to Nation.
"Every year added to the life of the average man is worth, it has been estimated, $500 to the nation. If the lives of 10,000,000 people were prolonged one year it would make a gain to the nation of $5,000,000,000."

"Roger Babson said that 20 men in 100 have the ability to law the groundwork for a fortune, but only one succeeds and keeps it through life. Great wealth is no guaranty of security—Henry Whitney once controlled the transportation business in one of our large cities, handling millions of dollars. When he died his estate was valued at less than $1,000."

Throw away the castor oil bottle that the little ones heartily detest and ask your druggist for a package of Kastor Jems, delicious chocolate candy in every one of which is just the proper dose of pure castor oil for children so scientifically combined with the candy that no one can taste the oil.

The children just love to take castor oil in this delightful form—it's just like giving them a high-class confection.

Kastor Jems have only been on the market for a few weeks, so please do not confound them with any other castor oil preparation.

Two is the dose for an adult and for you want a genuine and pleasant surprise get a 50 cent package today at Jesse D. Holloway's, Carnahan's Pharmacy, or any other good druggist.

Wolfe Awaits Fate

state was Turney David Ellis, of county jail. Examined by Assistant Prosecutor R. M. Brookes, he declared that as far as he had observed Wolfe "I would say he is sane."

Sheriff Gomer Lewis also said that in his opinion Wolfe is sane and that "he acts like any other prisoner."

John Young, an East End, East Liverpool drifter, and clay shooter in the mine of the American Vitified Products company, testified that Wolfe worked in the mine, that he saw him every day and that Wolfe was discharged for shooting firearms in entries.

Campbell Brown, who lived in Mulberry street, East Liverpool, just across the street from the Dearth restaurant, testified that he frequently talked with Wolfe. In answer to a direct question he said:

"I would say Wolfe is sane."

C. A. Poole, East End plumber, for whom Wolfe worked, testified that in his opinion Wolfe is sane.

The witness admitted though that at times Wolfe was "queer". The state rested at 11:10 a. m., there being no rebuttal.

Physicians Disagree.

At the Monday afternoon session, Dr. C. H. Bailey, of East Liverpool, expressed the opinion that Wolfe is sane, while Dr. Seward Harris, of Lisbon, county jail physician, said he believed the alleged murderer is insane.

Wolfe was subjected to three separate examinations during the cross-examination of Dr. Harris by Mr. Hanley, and to each of these tests there was a normal response, Dr. Harris testified.

Dr. Harris, however, said Wolfe was insane, basing his opinion on the fact that "any one who loans $800 to another without taking a receipt or something to show for it is not in his right mind."

He then continued: "It's a hard thing to draw the line between sane and insane. It's poor business to loan such a large sum of money and take no receipt. Wolfe fails to show interest in the case now on trial. My observation has been that people in jail are always nervous before their case goes to trial, but Wolfe does not show any concern—he seems to fall to grasp the gravity of the situation confronting him."

"He tells you a lie, is he insane?" queried Mr. Hanley.

This brought a smile from the court and also the crowd in the court room.

"That's hard to say," the witness replied.

"I believe Wolfe is insane because he fails to show a lack of interest in the outcome of this case," Dr. Harris added.

Dr. Bailey on Stand.

Dr. Bailey and Dr. Harris made an examination of Wolfe in the private chambers of the court during the afternoon recess and immediately following Dr. Bailey went on the stand.

Dr. Bailey described the condition of Wolfe when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital the night of Oct. 3, shortly after the murder of Mrs. Dearth. The physician testified that he found no bullet during his operation, and that he did not show any bullet at any time to Wolfe. He declared that Wolfe, in his opinion, showed pronounced retarded mental development—more of a moron.

In describing recent events, Dr. Bailey testified that Wolfe could remember them well, and that the memory of past events was accurate, so far as he could observe while Wolfe was under his charge.

Wolfe, the physician said, does not suffer from illusions and that his reasoning is more like that of a child between the age of 8 and 9 years. It was admitted, however, that any conclusion to the brain destroys part of memory and that the explanations by Wolfe as to why he was in the hospital varied.

"What do the tests you subjected Wolfe to today show?" Mr. Hanley asked.

"They show he is sane today. He shows no signs of dementia, and his wound caused no mental derangement."

Raymond Chambers Testifies.

Raymond Chambers, of East End, East Liverpool, who was a witness for the defense, testified under direct examination that "I wouldn't say he is insane." The witness declared he never saw Wolfe in a fit of temper.

Would you say Wolfe is sane or insane today?" Chambers was asked by Mr. Hanley.

"I'd say he's sane," John Young, mine foreman for the American Vitified Products Co., at their East Liverpool plant, testified that Wolfe had been employed as a miner for that company from Jan. 11 to July 14, and that he was discharged for carrying a revolver with him while at work. Young testified that Wolfe was a good workman, and received $6 per day.

"He was a frequent visitor to the cash register," Bayard Swiger, a brother of Mrs. Florence Dearth, testified referring to the activity of Wolfe around the Mulberry street restaurant.

Swiger testified that he "rarely saw Wolfe without a gun, either in his hand or in his pocket."

On cross examination, Swiger said: "I wouldn't think Wolfe insane, but I never considered him smart."

Patrolman Is Witness

Patrolman Chester Smith of East Liverpool testified, on direct examination, that he entered the Dearth restaurant the night of the murder of Mrs. Dearth and saw a revolver in the hand of Wolfe. In describing the previous actions of Wolfe, Smith testified that "he drifts with the wind."

"He was never with me in a raid," Mr. Smith said, "and I know nothing about him carrying a gun."

500-Voice Choir

Ewan after a pantomime hand-shake with the choral aggregation near its end quitted the platform and the building and was whisked by his host during his stay here, Harvey McHenry, to the Steubenville, and East Liverpool and Beaver Valley, Pa., on a car station where he boarded a car for Rochester, Pa., from which place he caught a train for New York, thus enabling him to stay with his family in Brooklyn for one day before joining the evangelist on Wednesday night in Jamestown, N. Y., for a ten day meeting.

Dr. Biederwolf declared he returned to East Liverpool for the concert for selfish reason "because he wanted to see potter folks once again before leaving for good." He again expressed his appreciation for what had been done here and hereabout for himself, the Family Altar League and the local lepers. You have acquitted yourselves generously and I am sure that blessings will attend your actions. I shall always remember East Liverpool and its surrounding localities with kindest pleasure."

Home influence and the early training that entailed the walking of nearly ten miles during Sunday to attend the various sessions of the strict covenant church in Scotland that he attended brought him back to its influence and caused him to quit a stage life, asserted Mr. McEwan in the resume he gave of his life history.

Mr. McEwan's Story.

"Ability to sing having been discovered in me as I worked in a print shop I finally by hard work was enabled to take training. My voice appeared and soon I was singing in music houses. Coming to America I traveled all over New England on the Keith circuit. My wife, whom I had married in Scotland, decided to go back for a visit and I accompanied her to New York and saw her off. I decided to go to and took a ship at Boston, reaching Glasgow almost with her."

"My father was disturbed at my non-attendance at church and finally one Sunday I entered the old Bethany Hall mission there, following the workers in from a street meeting. I was strangely convicted and following the singing of the song "Look and Live" and the ministrations of Robert Logan, now doing religious work in Canada, I gave up and accepted Christ. Though I was due the next week on the stage I quit at once and went to work in a carpet factory where I stayed for a long time.

"Finally I was asked to sing in the Bethany hall services, but as my church always sang psalms, I had never sung a hymn. On Sundays with the theatrical folk I used to sing "Where Is My Wondering Boy Tonight," not realizing I was such myself, being out of God's fold. So I at my wife's suggestion sang that song which impressed and decided me that I had a work today for my Master with my voice. So with Hugh Morris, now of Sidney, Australia, I began in school house services which broadened into trips throughout England, Ireland and Scotland. So I decided to come to America again, landed in Boston and got in with the late J. Wilbur Chapman and his director, Mr. Alexander. Later I went with R. A. Torrey all over this country and abroad. When Mr. Torrey went to the Los Angeles Bible school, I joined Dr. Biederwolf for six years and when the world war came quit to work in Camp Jackson.

"When the struggle ended I joined Gipsy Smith and remained with him until his final engagement in this country at Oakland, Ca., this spring. Late this summer I went back to Scotland to visit my 91-year old father and had just come back from a visit to Bethany hall, where I was converted, when I found Dr. Biederwolf's cablegram asking me to come to this meeting in East Liverpool. I thought it over, called back 'Yes' and here I am. So I want you to know it is a great thing to know the Lord Jesus. I can recommend Him to any one not yet having accepted Him even though the revival is over."

Miss Davis Speaks.

Miss Wilma E. Davis, pianist and woman worker of the evangelistic party, also spoke briefly expressing the appreciation of her stay in East Liverpool and especially the opportunity it afforded to witness for the first time in her life a snow storm and the earth mantled by its whiteness.

"But above all," she said, "it has been a joy to be here because my presence here has made it possible to be in some degree a co-laborer with God in the work of his kingdom. I want to thank you for all your kindnesses to me. I shall keep your names and faces in mind and prayer and hope you will do likewise for me."

At the suggestion of Mr. McEwan the thanks of the choir were expressed to R. O. Cline and the Smith-Phillips Co. for the use of their pianos during the revival; to T. H. Wilkinson and J. O. Hedderston for their work as registrars and to Prof. Hugh Laughlin of the city schools for his organization of the singers.

The program began with the singing of "Diadem," with Welsh variations. The choir read the 91st psalm and Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, made the invocation.

Then No. 27 (By Request) "What a Day of Victory That Will Be," hand-choirs being waved during the chorus by singers and listeners, was boomed out until the rafters of the auditorium appeared to veritably quake. Followed "The Awakening," it likewise being superbly executed.

The initial solo of the entertainment was by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, "If Ever I Loved Thee, My Jesus 'Tis Now," the tune of "Bonny Sweet Bessie, the Maid of Dundee," being utilized in its rendition and affording wonderful play for the rich and carrying tone of the singer's voice.

The appealing and educational hymn, "The Grand Old Book, The Grand Old Faith," by the choir inspired for its final time under the existing circumstances and an enthusiastic response was given it.

Cornet Solo.

Miss May Foden, who, during the entire revival, has been in the orchestra supporting the combined effects of the vocalists, contributed with delicate and pleasing precision a cornet solo that brought unanimous commendation.

"Redeemed," a song written by Rev. S. S. Smith, author of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and the music of which was arranged by the late Ira D. Sankey, Dwight L. Moody's singer, was well sung by the Presbyterian quartette composed of John Stoddard, J. O. Hedderston, Carl Gaston and C. E. Spahr.

A piano solo by Miss Edwina Wilson, the young High school girl, who, without missing a single session, presided at the grand piano during the campaign, was unusually pleasing and ear marked in its execution, her musical capabilities and brilliancy. Her revival loyalty was remembered throughout and in the applause so generously given her was something of a personal compliment in addition to the fine work performed.

"No 6," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," was rendered by the choir before Dr. Biederwolf, greeted by tremendous applause, rose to speak.

A vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Mrs. John Robbins, was one of the stellar numbers of the evening's musical offerings, her wide range of voice and easy presence being admirably coupled as a vehicle for the song used.

The choral song to the flag in which red, white and blue handkerchiefs were used with rare patriotic effect drew out as in perhaps no other selection the pent up enthusiasm of the big audience.

Sung by Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins and Miss Ethel Peterson, "Praise Ye the Lord," stood out in its beauty and fervent appeal, winning for the three the plaudits of the multitude.

Mr. McEwan then contributed what he declared was another "Hallelujah chorus with Methodist notes, set to Baptist music." In his capable manner, his sweet tenor being given its fullest play the piece was given.

"All Hail Emmanuel," a record, was released from a phonograph. His "duet" by himself, "He Hallowed My Soul in the Cleft of the Rock," was sung by the musical director, the phonograph in which he had recorded the song being utilized to complete the performance.

"He Took Me Out of the Mire Pit," the campaign song of the revival, was the only other choral number sung and it was rendered with the gusto of manner that always attended its rendition at the revival meetings, every man, woman and child finally reaching the necessity of at least humming it.

REDUCE TAXES, SAYS COOLIDGE

Federal Budget Message Calls for Policy of Economy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Coolidge today told congress how to keep on reducing taxes. It can only be done, he said, by continuing the government's present policy of strict and unyielding economy.

Transmitting to congress the federal budget for the fiscal year 1925-26, the president revealed that a surplus of $67,000,000 is anticipated at the end of the current fiscal year on June 30, 1925, and that the surplus for the next year is expected to be nearly $74,000,000.

"We are now in the fourth year of our campaign for the reduction of the cost of government," the president said in a special message read in both houses this afternoon. And our aim is to reduce the burden of taxes. In this we have been successful. We are fast reducing our expenditures to a minimum consistent with efficient service. We have before us an estimated surplus of $67,000,000 for the current year and $73,000,000 for the next year. Shall we embark upon new projects involving expenditures which will prevent the accumulation of these expected surpluses, or shall we continue the campaign for economy? I am for economy. If we continue the campaign for economy we will pave the way for further reduction in taxes."

Oppose Special Session.
Mr. Coolidge added, however, that this promised reduction could not be effected immediately, and indicated that he was not in favor of tax problem being taken up by a special session of congress after March 4, as has been suggested in some quarters.

"Before it is undertaken," he explained, "we should know more definitely by actual operation, what our revenues will be under the present law, but the knowledge of our revenues under the existing law will avail us nothing if we embark upon any new large expenditure program."

In accordance with the president's economy campaign, the government's ordinary expenditures for the next fiscal year will be more than $60,000,000 less than they are this year. The total expenditures for 1925-26, including the payment of $1,300,000,000 toward the reduction of the public debt, will be $3,267,551,373, compared with $3,534,933,805 this year and $3,506,677,715 last year.

Nearly half of the saving to be effected will be in curbing the expenditures for the army and navy the estimate being $29,000,000 less than the amount spent this year.

agencies are changing this condition materially.

Cites Gain to Nation.
"Every year added to the life of the average man is worth, it has been estimated, $500 to the nation. If the lives of 10,000,000 people were prolonged one year it would make a gain to the nation of $5,000,000,000."

"Roger Babson said that 2 men in 100 have the ability to law the groundwork for a fortune, but only one succeeds and keeps it through life."

"Great wealth is no guaranty of security—Henry Whitney once controlled the transportation business in one of our large cities, handling millions of dollars. When he died his estate was valued at less than $1,000."

Wolfe Awaits Fate

state was Turnkey David Eells, of county jail. Examined by Assistant Prosecutor R. M. Brookes, he declared that as far as he had observed Wolfe "I would say he is sane."

Sheriff Homer Lewis also said that in his opinion Wolfe is sane and that "he acts like any other prisoner."

John Young, an East End, East Liverpool drifter, and clay shooter in the mine of the American Vitrefied Products company, testified that Wolfe worked in the mine, that he saw him every day and that Wolfe was discharged for shooting firearms in entries.

Campbell Brown, who lived in Mulberry street, East Liverpool, just across the street from the Dearth restaurant, testified that he frequently talked with Wolfe. In answer to a direct question he said:

"I would say Wolfe is sane."

A. R. Plumber, for whom Wolfe worked, testified that in his opinion Wolfe is sane.

The witness admitted though that at times Wolfe was "queer."

The state rested at 11:10 a. m., there being no rebuttal.

Physicians Disagree.
At the Monday afternoon session, Dr. C. H. Bailey, of East Liverpool, expressed the opinion that Wolfe is sane, while Dr. Seward Harris, of Lisbon, county jail physician, said he believed the alleged murderer is insane.

Wolfe was subjected to three separate tests during the cross-examination of Dr. Harris by Mr. Hauley, and to each of these tests there was a normal response. Dr. Harris testified, however, said Wolfe was insane, basing his opinion on the fact that "any one who loans $800 to another without taking a receipt or something to show for it is not in his right mind."

He then continued: "It's a hard thing to draw the line between sane and insane. It's poor business to loan such a large sum of money and take no receipt. Wolfe fails to show interest in the case now on trial. My observation has been that people in jail are always nervous before their case goes to trial, but Wolfe does not show any concern—he seems to fail to grasp the gravity of the situation confronting him."

"If he tells you a lie, is he insane?" queried Mr. Hauley.

This brought a smile from the court and also the crowd in the court room.

"That's hard to say," the witness replied.

"I believe Wolfe is insane because he fails to show a lack of interest in the outcome of this case," Dr. Harris added.

Dr. Bailey on Stand.
Dr. Bailey and Dr. Harris made an examination of Wolfe in the private chambers of the court during the afternoon recess and immediately following Dr. Bailey went on the stand.

Dr. Bailey described the condition of Wolfe when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital the night of Oct. 3, shortly after the murder of Mrs. Dearth. The physician testified that he found no bullet during his operation, and that he did not show any bullet at any time to Wolfe. He declared that Wolfe, in his opinion, showed pronounced retarded mental development—more of a moron.

In describing recent events, Dr. Bailey testified that Wolfe could remember them well, and that the memory of past events was accurate, so far as he could observe while Wolfe was under his charge.

Wolfe, the physician said, does not suffer from illusions and that his reasoning is more like that of a child between the age of 8 and 9 years. It was admitted, however, that any concession to the brain destroys part of memory and that the explanations by Wolfe as to why he was in the hospital varied.

"What do the tests you subjected Wolfe to today show?" Mr. Hauley asked.

"They show he is sane today. He shows no signs of dementia, and his

New Way Eczema Goes in 48 Hours

Many people who suffer from itching skin and Eczema like to use salves and ointments and some of them are very good.

The one way, however, and the new way to get rid of Eczema in 48 hours or less, is to use Kojene, the most powerful non-poisonous, non-alcoholic antiseptic known.

It's a liquid and a six ounce bottle costs but 60 cents at Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway, Mathews Original Cut Rate or any progressive druggist and if it doesn't end your eczema in 48-hours—money gladly returned. Directions on each bottle.

It's equally good for boils, blisters, ulcers, skin infections, pimples and salt-rheum.

would cause no mental derangement."

Raymond Chambers Testifies.
Raymond Chambers, of East End, East Liverpool, who was a witness for the defense, testified under direct examination that "I wouldn't say he is insane. The witness declared he never saw Wolfe in a fit of temper."

Would you say Wolfe is sane or insane today?" Chambers was asked by Mr. Hauley.

"I'd say he's sane."

John Young, mine foreman for the American Vitrefied Products Co., at their East Liverpool plant, testified that Wolfe had been employed as a miner for that company from Jan. 11 to July 14, and that he was discharged for carrying a revolver with him while at work. Young testified that Wolfe was a good workman, and received $6 per day.

"He was a frequent visitor to the cash register," Bayard Swiger, a brother of Mrs. Flora Dearth, said, referring to the activity of Wolfe around the Mulberry street restaurant.

Swiger testified that he "rarely saw Wolfe without a gun, either in his hand or in his pocket."

"On cross examination, Swiger said: 'I wouldn't think Wolfe insane, but I never considered him smart.'"

Patrolman Is Witness
Patrolman Chester Smith of East Liverpool testified, on direct examination, that he entered the Dearth restaurant, the night of the murder of Mrs. Dearth and saw a revolver in the hand of Wolfe. In describing the previous actions of Wolfe, Smith testified that "he drifts with the wind."

"He was never with me in a raid," Mr. Smith said, "and I know nothing about him carrying a gun."

500-Voice Choir

Even after a pantomime hand-shake with the choral aggregation near its end, the platform and the building was whisked by his host during his stay here. Harvey McHenry, to the Steubenville, and East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction line station where he boarded a car for Rochester, Pa., from which place he caught a train for New York, thus enabling him to stay with his family in Brooklyn for one day before joining the evangelist on Wednesday night in Jamestown, N. Y., for a ten day meeting.

Dr. Biederwolf declared he returned to East Liverpool for the concert for selfish reason "because he wanted to see pottery folks once again before leaving for good." He again expressed his appreciation for what had been done here and hereabouts for himself, the Family Altar League and the Korean lepers. You have acquitted yourselves generously and I am sure that blessings will attend your actions. I shall always remember East Liverpool and its surrounding localities with keenest pleasure."

Home influence and the early training that entailed the walking of nearly ten miles during Sunday to attend the various sessions of the strict covenant church in Scotland that he attended brought him back to its influence and caused him to quit a stage life, asserted Mr. McEwan in the resume he gave of his life history.

Mr. McEwan's Story.
"Ability to sing having been discovered in me as I worked in a print shop I finally by hard work was enabled to take training. My voice appealed and soon I was singing in music houses. Coming to America I traveled all over New England on the Keith circuit. My wife, whom I had married in Scotland, decided to go back for a visit and I accompanied her to New York and saw her off. I decided to go to and took a ship at Boston, reaching Glasgow almost with her."

"My father was disturbed at my non-attendance at church and finally one Sunday I entered the old Bethany Hall mission there, following the workers in from a street meeting. I was strangely convicted and following the singing of the song 'Look and Live' and the ministrations of Robert Logan, now doing religious work in Canada, I gave up and accepted Christ. Though I was due the next week on the stage I quit at once and went to work in a carpet factory where I stayed for a long time."

"Finally I was asked to sing in the Bethany hall services, but as my church always sang psalms, I had never sung a hymn. On Sundays with the theatrical folk I used to sing 'Where Is My Wondering Boy Tonight,' not realizing I was such myself, being out of God's fold. So I at my wife's suggestion sang that song which impressed and decided me that I had a work today for my Master with my voice. So with Hugh Morris, now of Sidney, Australia, I began a school house circuit which broadened into trips throughout England, Ireland and Scotland. So I decided to come to America again, landed in Boston and got in with the late J. Wilbur Chapman and his director, Mr. Alexander. Later I went with R. A. Torrey all over this country and abroad. When Mr. Torrey went to the Los Angeles Bible school, I joined Dr. Biederwolf for six years and when the world war came quit to work in Camp Jackson."

"When the struggle ended I joined Gipsy Smith and remained with him until his final engagement in this country at Oakland, Ca., this spring. Late this summer I went back to Scotland to visit my 91-year old father and had just come back from a visit to Bethany hall, where I was converted, when I found Dr. Biederwolf's cablegram asking me to come to this meeting in East Liverpool. I thought it over, called back 'Yes' and here I am. So I want you to know it is a great thing to know the Lord Jesus. I can recommend Him to any one not yet having accepted Him even though the revival is over."

Miss Davis Speaks.
Miss Wilma E. Davis, pianist and woman worker of the evangelistic party, also spoke briefly expressing the appreciation of her stay in East Liverpool and especially the opportunity it afforded to witness for the first time in her life a snow storm and the earth mantled by its whiteness.

"But above all," she said, "it has been a joy to be here because my presence here has made it possible to be in some degree a collaborator with God in the work of his kingdom. I want to thank you for all your kindnesses to me. I shall keep your names and faces in mind and prayer and hope you will do likewise for me."

At the suggestion of Mr. McEwan the thanks of the choir were expressed to R. O. Cline and the Smith-Phillips Co., for the use of their pianos during the revival; to T. H. Wilkinson and J. O. Hedderston for their work as registrars and to Prof. Hugh Laughlin of the city schools for his organization of the singers.

The program began with the singing of "Diadem," with Welsh variations. The choir read the 91st psalm and Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, made the invocation.

Then No. 27 (By Request) "What a Day of Victory That Will Be," hands, chiefs being waved during the chorus by singers and listeners, was boomed out until the rafters of the auditorium appeared to veritably quake. Followed "The Awakening," it likewise being superbly executed. The initial solo of the entertainment was by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, "If Ever I Loved Thee, My Jesus 'Tis Now," the tune of "Bonny Sweet Bessie, the Maid of Dundee," being utilized in its rendition and affording wonderful play for the rich and carrying tone of the singer's voice.

The appealing and efficacious hymn, "The Grand Old Book, The Grand Old Faith," by the choir inspired for its final time under the existing circumstances and an enthusiastic response was given it.

Cornet Solo.
Miss May Foden, who, during the entire revival, has been in the orchestra supporting the combined effects of the vocalists, contributed with delicate and pleasing precision a cornet solo that brought unanimous commendation.

"Redeemed," a song written by Rev. S. E. Smith, author of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and the music of which was arranged by the late Ira D. Sankey, Dwight L. Moody's singer, was well sung by the Presbyterian quartet composed of John Stoddard, J. O. Hedderston, Carl Gaston and C. E. Spahr.

A piano solo by Miss Edwina Wilson, the young high school girl, without missing a single session, presided at the Grand piano during the campaign, was unusually pleasing and ear marked in its execution, her musical capabilities and brilliancy. Her revival loyalty was evidenced throughout and in the applause so generously given her was something of a personal compliment in addition to the fine work performed.

"No 6," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," was rendered by the choir before Dr. Biederwolf, greeted by tremendous applause, rose to speak.

A vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Mrs. John Robbins, was one of the stellar numbers of the evening's musical offerings, her wide range of voice and easy presence being admirably coupled as a vehicle for the song used.

The choral song to the flag in which red, white and blue handkerchiefs were used with rare patriotic effect drew out as in perhaps no other selection the pent up enthusiasm of the big audience.

Sung by Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins and Miss Ethel Peterson, "Praise Ye the Lord," stood out in its beauty and fervent appeal, winning for the three the plaudits of the multitude.

Mr. McEwan then contributed what he declared was another "Hallelujah chorus with Methodist words, set to Baptist music." In his capable manner, his sweet tenor being given its fullest play the piece was given.

"All Hail Emmanuel," a record, was released from a phonograph.

His "duet" by himself, "If I Hide My Soul in the Cleft of the Rock," was sung by the musical director, the phonograph in which he had recorded the song being utilized to complete the performance.

"He Took Me Out of the Miry Pit," the campaign song of the revival, was the only other choral number sung and it was rendered with the gusto of manner that always attended its rendition at the revival meetings, every man, woman and child finally reaching the necessity of at least humming it.

WOMAN RESISTS WOULD-BE THUG

Threatened by Negro at Her Home Near Heddons'.

That the unidentified Negro who yesterday threatened to attack Mrs. George Umensetter at her lonely residence at Heddons', near Hammondsville, has left the district by way of a freight over the C. & P. lines is the opinion of police authorities here who were called to join the search yesterday afternoon after the man had escaped a self-appointed posse.

Despite the threatening attitude of the man who confronted her as she went to her door shortly before noon, Mrs. Umensetter showed a brave resistance, her screams attracting nearby workmen who followed the Negro several miles before the trail was lost.

Mrs. Umensetter, it is reported, went to the door of her residence in response to a knock. When she opened it, a burly, unkempt man stepped across the threshold.

Frightened, Mrs. Umensetter, it is said, darted to a corner of the room and seized a rifle for defense. Scarcely had she grasped the weapon when the man, diagnosing her intentions, also reached for the gun and wrested it from her fingers. According to reports, he ran through the open door into the yard and rammed the barrel of the gun into the mud, as Mrs. Umensetter, shouting for aid, escaped from the house and made for the Dan-do Brick works, a short distance away, where her husband was at work.

A salesman of the Armour Co., who chanced to arrive in the vicinity at the moment, ran to the brick yard where the woman's husband and two other men dropped their tools and took up the chase.

The Negro lost little time in leaving the scene. It is believed by authorities that he made his way to the C. & P. tracks below the city and escaped on a freight.

Local police were called by Mrs. Umensetter and Chief of Police John Pultz, Mayor James S. Barnes and others scoured the roads and woods near Yellow Creek and vicinity without finding any traces of their quarry.

Two colored men, arrested on suspicion yesterday afternoon and taken to the city jail here, were released last evening shortly after 5 o'clock when Mrs. Umensetter failed to identify either of the pair as the man who entered her home.

Mrs. Leighton Hostess.

Members of Sunday school class No. 10 of the Methodist Protestant church will be entertained on Thursday evening at the home of the teacher, Mrs. James Leighton, of Broadway. This affair will be the annual Christmas party.

The bride was attired in a model of brown tulle, trimmed in beaver and fashioned along straight lines. Her hat and slippers harmonized.

Mrs. William K. Figley, her only attendant, wore a coat dress of navy point twill, trimmed in henna, embroidered devyten, and with this she wore a hat of cinnamon shade.

William Johnson served his brother as best man. The ring service was used, following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother.

A platoon of yellow and white chrysanthemums, banked with snail, was used in the center of the table, and a wedding cake was placed before the bride's cover. Miniature brides were given as favors.

The couple left later by motor for Philadelphia, where they attended the Penn-Cornell football game. Thanksgiving day. From there they expected to go to New York and other points of interest. Upon their return they will be at home at 513 Sixteenth street, Canton N. W.

The bridegroom is a member of Johnston brothers, contractors, and is a graduate of Cornell university. Out-of-town guests included Miss Rose Maley, Pittsburgh; Mrs. F. J. Martin, and Miss Mary Martin, of Wellsville, and Mrs. Emma Liebig, of Cleveland.

COD LIVER OIL KIDDIES LIKE

The Improved Way to Give Kiddies Cod Liver Oil Is Making Thousands of Mothers Happy.

Doctors tell mothers, "Give the child Cod Liver Oil" and then the trouble begins. Everybody knows there is nothing better in the world for weak, scrawny, skinny, growing kiddies than Cod Liver Oil, but it is next to impossible for mothers to get them to take the terrible tasting, ugly smelling oily stuff. They hate to take it and mothers hate to force it upon them.

But along comes Hypo-Cod in Tablet Form, the Improved Compound Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites Tablet, and mothers smile. This wonderful health formula contains the millions of vitamins contained in Cod Liver Oil and children swallow them as quickly as they would a piece of candy. And besides, Hypo-Cod Tablets contain the Combined Hypophosphites of Lime, Soda and Iron to purify the blood and increase strength and vigor; Quinine, Manganese and Strychnine to aid the stomach, heart and nerves; and the greatest of all blood enrichers, Peptonate of Iron. It's the very same formula which has been used in the celebrated Earle's Hypo-Cod for years. This famous health tonic has built up thousands of weak, frail, skinny kiddies.

Don't make your child take terrible tasting Cod Liver Oil, but hurry to your drug store for a bottle of Hypo-Cod Tablets. Remember, you can get your money back if you're not satisfied.

Recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate, Economy Drug Store, Huff's Drug Store, Bulger's Pharmacy, Gamble's Drug Store and McCutcheon's Pharmacy in Chester, and other good druggists everywhere. Two weeks' treatment $1.00.

Johnston, of the North Canton road, which was solemnized recently among simple but impressive appointments in the rectory of St. Peter's church, Canton. Both Mrs. Martin and her daughter have a large number of friends here.

Rev. A. B. Stuber officiated in the presence of the immediate families. The bride was attired in a model of brown duvetyne, trimmed in heaven and fashioned along straight lines. Her hat and slippers harmonized.

Mrs. William K. Figley, her only attendant, wore a coat dress of navy pique with, trimmed in henna, embroidered devyten, and with this she wore a hat of cinnamon shade.

William Johnston served his brother as best man. The ring service was used, following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother.

A platoon of yellow and white chrysanthemums, banked with snail, was used in the center of the table, and a wedding cake was placed before the bride's cover. Miniature brides were given as favors.

The couple left later by motor for Philadelphia, where they attended the Penn-Cornell football game Thanksgiving day. From there they expected to go to New York and other points of interest. Upon their return they will be at home at 513 Sixteenth street, Canton N. W.

The bridegroom is a member of Johnston brothers, contractors, and is a graduate of Cornell university. Out-of-town guests included Miss Rose Maley, Pittsburgh; Mrs. F. J. Martin and Miss Mary Martin, of Wellsville, and Mrs. Emma Liebtog, of Cleveland.

COD LIVER OIL KIDDIES LIKE

The Improved Way to Give Kiddies Cod Liver Oil Is Making Thousands of Mothers Happy.

Doctors tell mothers, "Give the child Cod Liver Oil" and then the trouble begins. Everybody knows there is nothing better in the world for weak, scrawny, skinny, growing kiddies than Cod Liver Oil, but it is next to impossible for mothers to get them to take the terrible tasting, ugly smelling oily stuff. They hate to take it and mothers hate to force it upon them.

But along comes Hypo-Cod in Tablet Form, the Improved Compound Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites Tablet, and mothers smile. This wonderful health formula contains the millions of vitamins contained in Cod Liver Oil and children swallow them as quickly as they would a piece of candy. And besides, Hypo-Cod Tablets contain the Combined Hypophosphites of Lime, Soda and Iron to purify the blood and increase strength and vigor; Quinine, Manganese and Strychnine to aid the stomach, heart and nerves; and the greatest of all blood enrichers, Peptonate of Iron. It's the very same formula which has been used in the celebrated Earle's Hypo-Cod for years. This famous health tonic has built up thousands of weak, frail, skinny kiddies.

Don't make your child take terrible tasting Cod Liver Oil, but hurry to your drug store for a bottle of Hypo-Cod Tablets. Remember, you can get your money back if you're not satisfied.

MANY owners of radio sets will tell you the one they operate now is the second, or third, or fourth they have bought in a short time.

At first, the mere marvel of hearing a program by radio was sufficient. With more experience, they demanded better radio—clearer reception, greater range of wave lengths, better selectivity, finer appearance, fewer tuning controls, more volume, trouble-proof reliability.

Seals Save Child Lives

The City Federation of Women's Clubs will launch the campaign for funds to carry on the 1925 fight in East Liverpool against tuberculosis on Thursday, when a three-day drive for the sale of Christmas health seals will open under the direction of Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman of the health committee.

The campaign here as well as elsewhere throughout the nation is directed largely toward saving children from the disease through education, sanatorium treatment and fresh air camps. The Ohio Public Health Association, the state organization in charge of this commendable movement, points out that the response of tuberculosis children to the methods of the cure is more rapid than for adults.

Between 1910 and 1920 census years the decline in tuberculosis mortality among infants under 1 was 46 per cent, among children 1 to 14, 38 per cent, while among adults the decline was only about 25 per cent.

If, as census figures indicate, there are 4,000 children of school age dying each year from tuberculosis, the community is losing in the aggregate more than 200,000 years of life. The life expectancy at birth is at the present time about 55 years and this remains about the same through the school ages, or at least until the age of 14.

If the cost to the country of educating a child averages $100 a year and 4,000 children of school age die yearly the loss to the country is over a million dollars annually if we assume that each child has had three years of schooling. This is a direct loss in addition to the loss in life expectancy and productivity.

Furthermore, investigation shows that about 10 per cent of all school children, under high school age, are underweight. This means that their resistance to all diseases as well as tuberculosis is lessened.

These facts emphasize the importance of encouraging any movement having for its purpose the support of health camps, nutrition and health education among school children. Buy Christmas health seals and help save child lives.

Universal English

If the sun never sets on the British empire, neither does it ever set on the English language. In addition to the British dominions where English is the common speech, there are the United States and its possessions.

A writer in the London Mail calls public attention to the rapid spread in use of English. In 1801 only about 20,500,000 people spoke English. By 1890 the number had increased to 111,000,000. Today it is around 170,000,000, and rapidly increasing. By the year 1950 this number may be doubled.

Russian, Chinese and Spanish are the nearest rivals to English as a popular language. The first two are not considered serious rivals because of their cumbersome and also because their use is not growing now.

Spanish is the principal language of America south of the United States, and the numbers of persons using it are increasing as the population of the Latin-American countries increases. Still, it lacks one element of growth which English possesses.

Practically all over the world English is regarded as an important language. It is taught in many of the schools of almost all the civilized nations. Educated representatives of the Oriental nations learn English as do those of Europe.

It really looks as if English had a fairly good chance to be the universal language—for a while.

Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the late kaiser, complains that he can't afford enough coal to heat his palace this winter. Just start a royal Hohenzollern come back, prince, and you'll find it warm enough for you.

Pessimists may console themselves with the reflection that the chestnut, emon and prune crops are said to be good this fall.

Soap men estimate that the country will need 2,500,000,000 bars of soap next year. And very likely it will, if people keep on letting their furnaces and chimneys smoke in the same old way.

Possibly nothing in nature is without some use. Scientists say goldfish kill mosquitoes. All you have to do is to put the goldfish in the swamp or let the mosquitoes into the house.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policy of The Review-Tribune.)

WELCOME THE AERO CAR

Important news to commuters and congested cities comes from Paris. Our crowded cities should investigate.

Monsieur Laur, 84 years old, has invented the aero car, and the government will build a sample "aero line."

The car, 7 feet high, 7 feet wide and 40 feet long, is suspended below a cable 42 feet in the air, slung from poles far apart. Each car carries 100 passengers and the speed is 50 miles an hour.

Most interesting of all, the car, hanging below the steel cable is driven along as a flying machine is driven. A powerful propeller nine feet in diameter, worked by electric current taken from the cable overhead pushes the car, the aero propeller striking against the air as a ship's propeller strikes against the water.

THE SEMI-FLYING MACHINE.

The description sounds feasible, and the scheme, if it works as the very practical French think it will, would solve nine-tenths of our traffic problems, in cities and for suburban travel out in the country. Each aero car might even spread out a small pair of steel wings or planes and make of the car a "semi-flying machine," all rights reserved for that idea.

With power enough and a big propeller the car might as easily go 100 miles an hour as 50 miles. Then "New York to Chicago above the railroad in nine hours for $9."

There would be no unsightly elevated structure in city streets. No obstruction whatever of light except as cars passed high up in the air. And, very little then. No expensive right of way or roadbed out in the suburbs. Every highway could have its "aero" above it.

Imagine such a line running along the center of Michigan avenue in Chicago, or Park avenue, or Fifth avenue, New York. Only a few steel poles far apart. What an improvement on street cars or buses crawling on the surface.

For cross streets one line would conveniently pass above another. The expense would be ridiculously low compared with subway digging, and the people, if they had the brains and if corporations would allow it, might easily own their own transportation facilities.

Mayor Hylan, who is about to spend $300,000,000 on a subway system to be owned by New York city ought to look into this Paris aero.

Also the able engineers of the General Electric and Westinghouse companies should get after it. There would be big dividends in equipping aerial lines from coast to coast.

Most important of all, this one invention might solve the problem of city and suburban traffic as the automobile settled the individual transportation problem.

NOT WITH WORDS

"It is not with words that one maintains governments."

That is said to be Mussolini's favorite motto.

He has it engraved on a sword and he lives up to it. England has it engraved on her memory and without talking much about it lives up to it also.

Machiavelli says that even prophets must have arms or succumb.

"All armed prophets have been victorious and all unarmed prophets have been vanquished, because the mind of the people is fickle and it is easy to persuade them that a thing is right but exceedingly difficult to keep them steadfast in that conviction."

"Moses' Cyrus, Thebes, Rome would not have been able to enforce their constitutions for any length of time if they had been disarmed."

Mohammed, Cromwell and Washington might be added to that list. Mussolini, who embodies these quotations from Machiavelli in an essay written by himself is the prophet of Fascism and does not propose to be caught unarmed.

BRITISH BADGER GAME

London is much excited about the scandal of the Indian rajah, the English blond and that blond's husband. The people have titles and the blackmail is big in the British case, but it is simply on a bigger scale than the old "bagger game" so well known to the American police.

The badger game is played as follows: The woman leads the fool into a trap that compromises them both. Then comes a pounding on the door, shrieks by the female, terror of the fool. Door opens, enter outraged husband, the badger game partner.

The fool, afraid of later scandal and more afraid of the pistol or knife pointed at his inwards, now pays all he can to soothe the husband's "honor" and makes his escape. The game is played all over the United States all the time.

In the British case the rajah fool gave up $750,000 in blackmail to soothe the British husband. The rajah, an important person, commander-in-chief of the Kashmir army, helps to maintain British rule in the east in return for protection in the enjoyment of his individual rank and fortune.

President Coolidge will ask lower railroad freight rates and suggests that the roads can make up the difference by practicing economy.

That is not the railroad idea, however. President Coolidge will find that railroad management and railroad wishes are a department of our government, although not listed as such in the constitution.

Spain, after long, weary and bloody war with Morocco tribes, is compelled to compromise and will sign an armistice, first withdrawing her troops to a distance demanded by Abdel Karim, the Moorish leader.

The Moors do not forget that they once ruled Spain, leaving their marks of dominion everywhere. They do not propose to be driven from African soil that they owned before any "Spain" existed.

The armistice which confesses defeat is humiliating to the Spanish people, as proud and courageous as any on earth.

No other nation, however, may mock the Spaniards. It took the British empire years to defeat a handful of Boers in South Africa. And the American government remembers 50 years of fighting against a few warlike red Indian tribes. Men fighting on their own lands for their own homes, and therefore with justice on their side, are not easily defeated.

DINNER STORIES

Jack was home for his holidays from college. One day he said to his mother: "May I tell you a narrative, mother?" The mother, not being used to hearing such big words, said, "What is a narrative, my boy?"

"A narrative is a tale," said Jack.

"That night, when going to bed, Jack said, 'May I extinguish the light, mother?'"

His mother asked, "What do you mean by saying extinguish?"

"Extinguish means to put out," said Jack.

A few days later Jack's mother was giving a party at their home, and the dog walked in. Jack's mother raised her voice and said: "Jack, take that dog by the nose and extinguish him."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Earning time is a new line of endeavor.

In the past nine years 4,376 convicts have "earned" 1,357 years by labor on state highways and at the same time they are assisting in keeping their dependents, as well as laying up a nest egg for the day when they will be freed.

State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton revealed today many interesting features of the working of the California law which permits the use of convicts for road building in sparsely settled sections of the state where labor is difficult to secure.

"A nine years' trial of the use of prison labor in the construction of state highways in California finds the people satisfied with the system and no evidence has been presented to show that the camps are not a gain to the state both financially and socially," said Morton. "While the present economic situation in California indicates that some of the work now being performed by the prison camps might be done as cheaply by contract, there can be no question of the saving on the human side of the scale."

"The one big idea behind the convict camps in California is to make of the men committed to them better citizens, relieving society of the burden of their upkeep and the handicap of their misdirected efforts."

"The first prison road camp was composed of 17 men from San Quentin prison and was located in the redwood section of Humboldt county. From the small beginning the work has grown until three camps are in operation at the present time, employing approximately 600 men."

"In all, 220 miles of state highway have been built by convict labor in 17 different locations at an average cost of $21,900 per mile. The total expenditure by the highway commission through these camps is $4,815,000."

"Up to October 30, 1924, a total of 4,376 men had been through the camps and the total convict time spent has reached 2,714 years. Credits earned for time spent in the camps amounted to 1,357 years. The total time which these men would have been compelled to serve had they remained in prison is 4,671 years. The convict years saved amounted to 1,486, or a saving to the state of $1,129,295 computing the cost of maintaining convicts in the prison at an average of 76 cents per man per day."

"Of the total number of men received in the camps since 1915 only 85 of those attempting to escape have not been captured, less than 2 per cent of the total."

"The original act of 1915 was replaced in 1923 by a new law which makes possible earnings in money for convicts who make good on the road. The credit for the initiation of the movement which resulted in the enactment of this law is due to Julian H. Alco, of San Francisco, who has been interested in practical prison reform for many years."

"The act provides that convicts working on the state highway shall receive a daily wage not to exceed $2.50 per day, against which shall be charged each man's proportionate cost of camp operation. No convict may be credited with more than 75 cents per day. Prisoners are prohibited from doing skilled work or operating motor vehicles."

"Dependents of convicts may be paid two-thirds of their earnings and the remainder is held for them and paid upon their discharge. Earnings are forfeited by prisoners who violate the camp rules."

"The commission has set the wage for convict labor at $2.10 per day, which was the cost of operating the camps at the time the pay law went into effect."

"Under this new law, which has been in effect since August 17, 1923, the average payment to discharged men has been $93.27 and many gone out with more than $100 to their credit. One man was discharged with an earning of $247.77. Average earnings have amounted to 31 cents a day."

"The total earnings of all convicts to date have been $79,737.87, and yet the cost of camp operation is not greater than before the pay law went into effect."

"California prison road camps always have been honor camps. There are few guards and these are unarmed. The men are well clothed and provided with plenty of wholesome food. A library is in each camp. Some of the camps have raised funds for the purchase of radio outfits and nearly all have excellent ball teams which, often, are the pride of the countryside."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Broadway with its quick blondes, tin horn sports, men-about-town, wise guys and pudgy paps plays havoc with innocence. The young girl who is caught in its cross currents finds the descent is swift.

It was just eight months ago that there came to a producer's office a shy auburn haired girl who had won a beauty prize in her home town in the south. This achievement blazed the ambition for a Broadway career.

Her beauty and naivete struck a responsive chord and she was given a small bit in the chorus. Her life up to this time had been circumscribed to small town gayeties—strawberry suppers, once a week movies and literary societies.

A song writer fell in love with her. He moved in a fast, sporty set and it was among their paths that the girl strayed. She had never had a cocktail or breakfasted at Childs' in Columbus circle at dawn. It was new stuff and she was seeing life.

A friend of her family is a friend of mine. Now and then he invited her to his apartment for a home cooked dinner, asked in substantial friends of his for a healthy atmosphere and tried as a friend of the family to keep in touch with her.

Once she came tipsy from too many cocktails. He tried to reason with her and point out the pitfalls. There were tears, remorse and many promises. Next came a hurriedly scribbled note for a small loan. She had lost her job.

The other day I was in his apartment and he told me of the girl. She had arrived at his place long after midnight in a drizzling rain. She seemed befuddled and finally fell asleep in a chair. Her purse fell open and from it fell a half empty vial of cocaine.

St. Gaudens' famous Diana that has poised for so many years on old Madison Square Garden is to be preserved. Arthur Brisbane, the editor, is to place it atop the tower of the 30-story apartment house he is building on Park avenue and Fifty-seventh street. Mr. Brisbane's new building is to be the largest of its kind in town, and he will occupy an 18-room apartment on the nineteenth floor.

Montreal is becoming a great week-ending spot for New Yorkers. They go in groups and when they arrive in New York and are restored to consciousness they are usually a bit abashed at having invited all the northwest mounted police or the entire city of Montreal to visit them for a month or so.

At one of those white and sanitary earcophagi that add to the glitter of Broadway they have installed a massive pipe organ and one may order corn beef and cabbage and devour it to the tune of some heavy Wagnerian bit.

One of the gayest of coon shouters is now being billed with the prefix "Mme." She did it more as a publicity stunt. She is large, buxom and thick ankle and has always been known for her rather jovial commonness. But since she took on the prefix her friends say she has become very much changed. Her voice has modulated. She has some grand manners. The other day she appeared in a restaurant carrying a lognette. Of course, it is all for publicity but somehow most of us like people who are genuine even when they are in the unreal world of the stage. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

PROPOSED TRAFFIC LAWS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Laws providing that when a motor vehicle is operated in violation of the general motor vehicle law, or negligently or carelessly, and anybody is injured thereby, in person or property, the driver's and owner's license may be suspended or revoked and the car itself impounded, as recommended in the report of the committee on insurance to the national conference on street and highway safety, which opens in Washington December 15.

These radical measures are favored as the only ones of a number of expedients submitted to the committee which the committee believes will tend materially to the prevention of accidents.

"It is the belief of your committee," says the report, "that they impose upon the owner, and likewise upon the driver, obligations and inconveniences, the penalties of which neither can undertake in advance to avoid or guard against by means of any contract or arrangement entered into prior to the happening of the accident, and which, in their essential effect, neither the owner nor the driver can avoid subsequent to the accident."

"The trouble and inconvenience occasioned by the enforcement of the proposed measure will affect the owner and the driver under each and every circumstance in which the law is applicable. Further, the owner will be responsible to the extent of the obligations imposed upon him by these proposed laws whether he himself is driving the automobile, whether his servant or agent is driving it, or whether any other person is driving it with his consent, express or implied, and the driver would be subject to like obligations and inconveniences."

Thus, in the opinion of the committee, these proposed laws are bound to have great weight as deterrents, and constitute a threat, with the sanction of the state behind it, in advance of the accident, that certain penalties must affect the owner or driver, or both, and cannot be evaded.

REGISTRATION OF TITLES

The committee also recommends that all of the states adopt the principle of certification and registration of titles of motor vehicles. This is intended primarily to reduce the number of automobile thefts which result in an annual loss estimated at from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

However, many traffic accidents involve stolen cars, for the individual who steals a machine is usually a dangerous and reckless driver, and it is believed that this law would tend to reduce accidents by striking effectively at the theft evil.

Virginia was the first state to enact such a law. In 1919, and since that time Alabama, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Utah and Wyoming have fallen into line.

"It will be seen that nearly two-thirds of the states have not yet enacted title certification laws," says the report. "A person, therefore, may steal a car in a state having a law of this kind and transport it to a neighboring state which does not have such rigid legislation. There it may be sold with considerably less danger of detection. Obviously, under these circumstances maximum benefits are not obtained through existing laws, and the advantage of having uniform title laws on the statute books of all states becomes apparent."

Maryland and Michigan authorities are quoted as stating that a 50 per cent reduction in theft losses has resulted since their laws went into effect and insurance companies have recognized the effectiveness of this legislation by a reduction in rates in some states. The United States chamber of commerce is on record as favoring the principle of the certification and registration of motor vehicle titles.

STANDARDIZING ACCIDENT RECORD

Insurance companies are urged to keep a detailed and clearly organized record of their experience of street and highway accidents according to causes, location and other controlling factors. By sending out 2,500 questionnaires the committee secured reports on 1,897 accidents in 244 cities of 44 states. As to the nature of the accidents, these reports showed: Collision with pedestrian, 46 per cent; collision with another moving automobile, 30.4 per cent; collision with other moving vehicle, 10.9 per cent; collision with stationary objects, 5.3 per cent; not classifiable, 7.4 per cent.

Careless or reckless driving was responsible for 32.7 per cent of these accidents and carelessness or recklessness on the part of pedestrians for 29.3 per cent. Both parties were jointly responsible for 18.7 per cent. Other highway users, including wagons, trains, street cars, bicycles, motorcycles, etc., were responsible for 16.4 per cent of defective automobile accidents, and physically defective drivers for 2.7 per cent and 1 per cent.

The committee found that at the present time practically every company that insures automobiles makes some effort to direct the drivers of cars along lines of safety. This effort ranges from the distribution of windshield posters containing suggestions for careful driving to the formation and conduct of drivers' schools for the special benefit of fleet operators.

Some companies and at least one national automobile association have compiled and made available to automobile drivers an instruction book of manual dealing with such subjects as rules of the road and commonly accepted principles of safe driving. There is, however, no uniformity in the work now being carried on and the committee believes that the insurance companies should and would cooperate in any movement tending to bring about this compilation, publication and distribution of a drivers' manual which would give in simple language and proper for much instruction as might easily be memorized by any one.

On the suggestion that insurance companies rate individual risks on the basis of merit rating—that is, give the driver who never has had an accident a policy at a lower rate—the committee takes a strong negative stand. It does not think that it would tend to reduce accidents, while it would necessitate an increase in basic insurance rates.

In this connection it is interesting to know that when an automobile driver has had an accident he is supposed to be through with that sort of thing for 20 years. That is, one accident in 20 years is the statistical allotment to each machine. Five cars out of each hundred, to state it another way, have an accident each year.

Seals Save Child Lives

The City Federation of Women's Clubs will launch the campaign for funds to carry on the 1925 fight in East Liverpool against tuberculosis on Thursday, when a three-day drive for the sale of Christmas health seals will open under the direction of Mrs. Louis Steinfield, chairman of the health committee.

The campaign here as well as elsewhere throughout the nation is directed largely toward saving children from the disease through education, sanatorium treatment and fresh air camps. The Ohio Public Health Association, the state organization in charge of this commendable movement, points out that the response of tuberculosis children to the methods of the cure is more rapid than for adults.

Between 1910 and 1920 census years the decline in tuberculosis mortality among infants under 1 was 46 per cent, among children 1 to 14, 38 per cent, while among adults the decline was only about 25 per cent.

If, as census figures indicate, there are 4,000 children of school age dying each year from tuberculosis, the community is losing in the aggregate more than 200,000 years of life. The life expectancy at birth is at the present time about 55 years and this remains about the same through the school ages, or at least until the age of 14.

If the cost to the country of educating a child averages $100 a year and 4,000 children of school age die yearly the loss to the country is over a million dollars annually if we assume that each child has had three years of schooling. This is a direct loss in addition to the loss in life expectancy and productivity.

Furthermore, investigation shows that about 10 per cent of all school children, under high school age, are underweight. This means that their resistance to all diseases as well as tuberculosis is lessened.

These facts emphasize the importance of encouraging any movement having for its purpose the support of health camps, nutrition and health education among school children. Buy Christmas health seals and help save child lives.

Universal English

If the sun never sets on the British empire, neither does it ever set on the English language. In addition to the British dominions where English is the common speech, there are the United States and its possessions.

A writer in the London Mail calls public attention to the rapid spread in use of English. In 1801 only about 20,500,000 people spoke English. By 1890 the number had increased to 111,000,000. Today it is around 170,000,000, and rapidly increasing. By the year 1950 this number may be doubled.

Russian, Chinese and Spanish are the nearest rivals to English as a popular language. The first two are not considered serious rivals because of their cumbersome and also because their use is not growing now.

Spanish is the principal language of America south of the United States, and the numbers of persons using it are increasing as the population of the Latin-American countries increases. Still, it lacks one element of growth which English possesses.

Practically all over the world English is regarded as an important language. It is taught in many of the schools of almost all the civilized nations. Educated representatives of the Oriental nations learn English as do those of Europe.

It really looks as if English had a fairly good chance to be the universal language—for a while.

Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the late kaiser, complains that he can't afford enough coal to heat his palace this winter. Just start a royal Hohenzollern come back, prince, and you'll find it warm enough for you.

Pessimists may console themselves with the reflection that the chestnut, emon and prune crops are said to be good this fall.

Soap men estimate that the country will need 2,500,000,000 bars of soap next year. And very likely it will. If people keep on letting their furnaces and chimneys smoke in the same old way.

Possibly nothing in nature is without some use. Scientists say goldfish kill mosquitoes. All you have to do is to put the goldfish in the swamp or let the mosquitoes into the house.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

WELCOME THE AERO CAR

Important news to commuters and congested cities comes from Paris. Our crowded cities should investigate.

Monsieur Laur, 84 years old, has invented the aero car, and the government will build a sample "aero line."

The car, 7 feet high, 7 feet wide and 40 feet long, is suspended below a cable 42 feet in the air, glung from poles far apart. Each car carries 100 passengers and the speed is 50 miles an hour.

Most interesting of all, the car, hanging below the steel cable is driven along as a flying machine is driven. A powerful propeller nine feet in diameter, worked by electric current taken from the cable overhead pushes the car, the aero propeller striking against the air as a ship's propeller strikes against the water.

THE SEMI-FLYING MACHINE.

The description sounds feasible, and the scheme, if it works as the very practical French think it will, would solve nine-tenths of our traffic problems, in cities and for suburban travel out in the country. Each aero car might even spread out a small pair of steel wings or planes and make of the car a "semi-flying machine," all rights reserved for that idea.

With power enough and a big propeller the car might as easily go 100 miles an hour as 50 miles. Then "New York to Chicago above the railroad in nine hours for $9."

There would be no unsightly elevated structure in city streets. No obstruction whatever of light except as cars passed high up in the air. And, very little then. No expensive right of way or roadbed out in the suburbs. Every highway could have its "aero" above it.

Imagine such a line running along the center of Michigan avenue in Chicago, or Park avenue, or Fifth avenue, New York. Only a few steel poles far apart. What an improvement on street cars or buses crawling on the surface.

For cross streets one line would conveniently pass above another. The expense would be ridiculously low compared with subway digging, and the people, if they had the brains and if corporations would allow it, might easily own their own transportation facilities.

Mayor Hylan, who is about to spend $300,000,000 on a subway system to be owned by New York city ought to look into this Paris aero.

Also the able engineers of the General Electric and Westinghouse companies should get after it. There would be big dividends in equipping aerial lines from coast to coast.

Most important of all, this one invention might solve the problem of city and suburban traffic as the automobile settled the individual transportation problem.

NOT WITH WORDS

"It is not with words that one maintains governments."

That is said to be Mussolini's favorite motto.

He has it engraved on a sword and he lives up to it. England has it engraved on her memory and without talking much about it lives up to it also.

Machiavelli says that even prophets must have arms or succumb.

"All armed prophets have been victorious and all unarmed prophets have been vanquished, because the mind of the people is fickle and it is easy to persuade them that a thing is right but exceedingly difficult to keep them steadfast in that conviction."

"Moses' Cyrus, Theseus, Romulus would not have been able to enforce their constitutions for any length of time if they had been disarmed."

Mohammed, Cromwell and Washington might be added to that list. Mussolini, who embodies these quotations from Machiavelli in an essay written by himself is the prophet of Fascism and does not propose to be caught unarmed.

BRITISH BADGER GAME

London is much excited about the scandal of the Indian rajah, the English blond and that blond's husband. The people have titles and the blackmail is big in the British case, but it is simply on a bigger scale than the old "bagger game" so well known to the American people.

The badger game is played as follows: The woman leads the fool into a trap that compromises them both. Then comes a pouncing on the floor, shrieks by the female, terror of the fool. Door opens, enter outraged husband, the badger game partner.

The fool, afraid of later scandal and more afraid of the pistol or knife pointed at his inwards, now pays all he can to soothe the husband's "honor" and makes his escape. The game is played all over the United States all the time.

In the British case the rajah fool gave up $750,000 in blackmail to soothe the British husband. The rajah, an important person, commander-in-chief of the Kashmir army, helps to maintain British rule in the east in return for protection in the enjoyment of his individual rank and fortune.

President Coolidge will ask lower railroad freight rates and suggests that the roads can make up the difference by practicing economy.

That is not the railroad idea, however. President Coolidge will find that railroad management and railroad wishes are a department of our government, although not listed as such in the constitution.

Spain, after long, weary and bloody war with Morocco tribes, is compelled to compromise and will sign an armistice, first withdrawing her troops to a distance demanded by Abdel Karim, the Moorish leader.

The Moors do not forget that they once ruled Spain, leaving their marks of dominion everywhere. They do not propose to be driven from African soil that they owned before any "Spain" existed.

The armistice which confesses defeat is humiliating to the Spanish people, as proud and courageous as any on earth.

No other nation, however, may mock the Spaniards. It took the British empire years to defeat a handful of Boers in South Africa. And the American government remembers 50 years of fighting against a few warlike red Indian tribes. Men fighting on their own lands for their own homes, and therefore with justice on their side, are not easily defeated.

DINNER STORIES

Jack was home for his holidays from college. One day he said to his mother: "May I tell you a narrative, mother?" The mother, not being used to hearing such big words, said, "What is a narrative, my boy?"

"A narrative is a tale," said Jack.

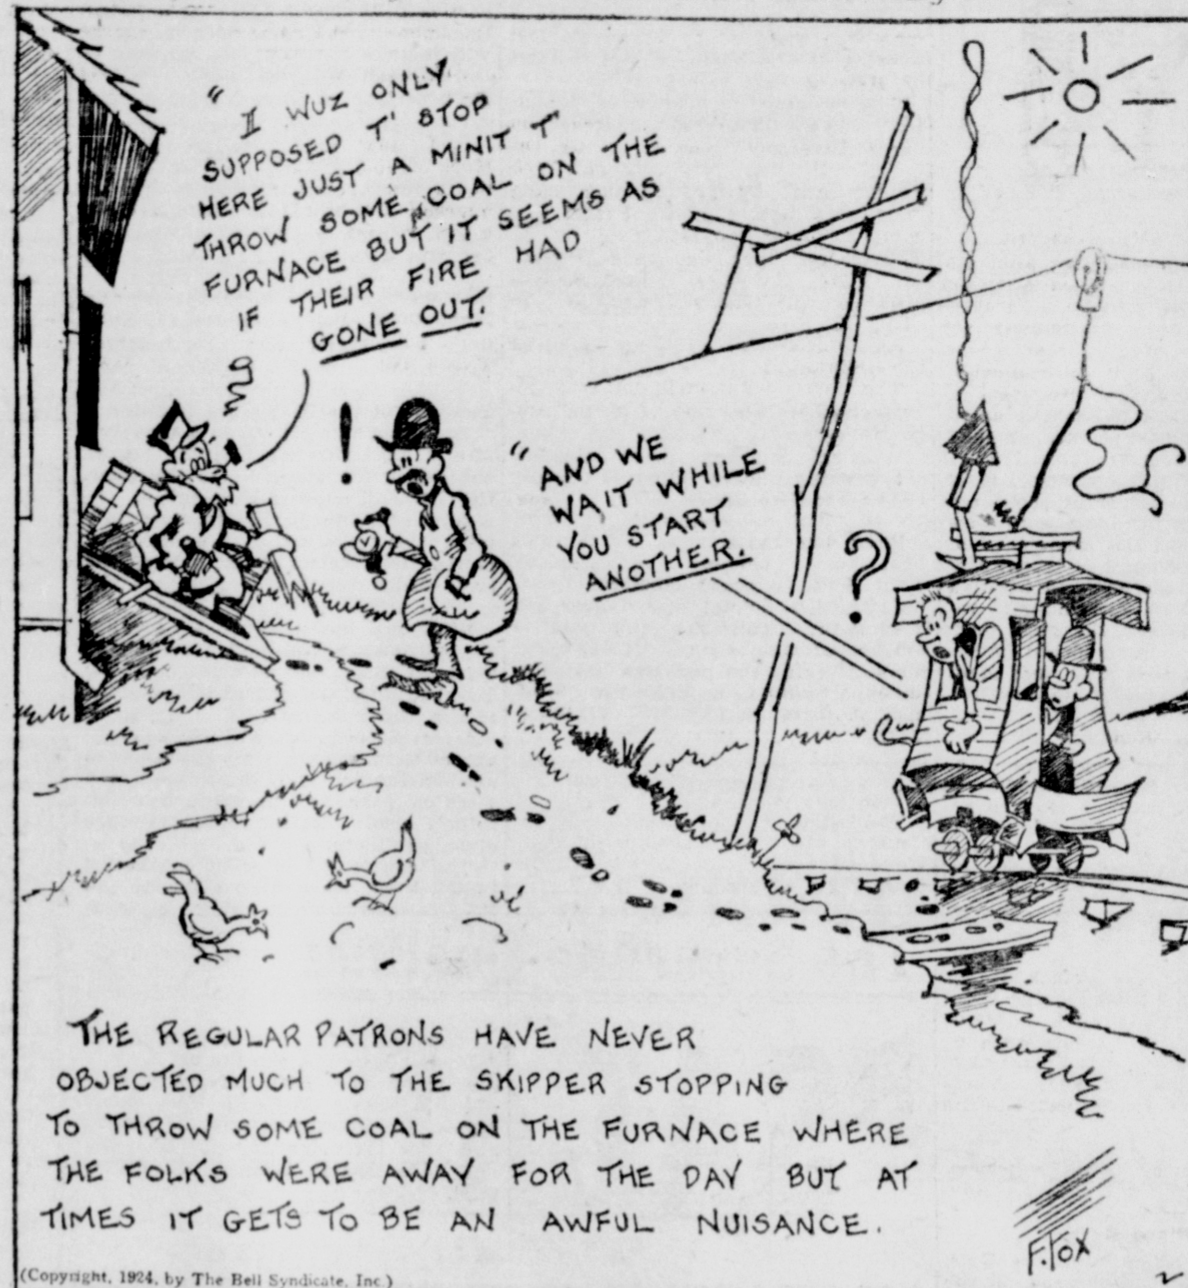

That night, when going to bed, Jack said, "May I extinguish the light, mother?"

His mother asked, "What do you mean by saying extinguish?"

"Extinguish means to put out," said Jack.

A few days later Jack's mother was giving a party at her home, and the dog walked in. Jack's mother raised her voice and said, "Jack, take that dog by the narrative and extinguish him."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Earning time is a new line of endeavor.

In the past nine years 4,376 convicts have "earned" 1,357 years by labor on state highways and at the same time they are assisting in keeping their dependents, as well as laying up a nest egg for the day when they will be freed.

State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton revealed today many interesting features of the working of the California law which permits the use of convicts for road building in sparsely settled sections of the state where labor is difficult to secure.

"A nine years' trial of the use of prison labor in the construction of state highways in California finds the people satisfied with the system and no evidence has been presented to show that the camps are not a gain to the state both financially and socially," said Morton. "While the present economic situation indicates that some of the work now being performed by the prison camps might be done as cheaply by contract, there can be no question of the saving on the human side of the scale."

"The one big idea behind the convict camps in California is to make of the men committed to them better citizens, relieving society of the burden of their upkeep and the handicap of their misdirected efforts."

"The first prison road camp was composed of 17 men from San Quentin prison and was located in the redwood section of Humboldt county. From the small beginning the work has grown until three camps are in operation at the present time, employing approximately 500 men."

"In all, 239 miles of state highway have been built by convict labor in 17 different locations at an average cost of $21,900 per mile. The total expenditure by the highway commission through these camps is $4,815,000."

"Up to October 30, 1924, a total of 4,376 men had been through the camps and the total convict time spent has reached 2,714 years. Credits earned for time spent in the camps amounted to 1,357 years. The total time which these men would have been compelled to serve had they remained in prison is 4,071 years. The convict years saved amounted to 1,486, or a saving to the state of $1,129,295 computing the cost of maintaining convicts in the prison at an average of 76 cents per man per day."

"Of the total number of men received in the camps since 1915 only 85 of those attempting to escape have not been captured, less than 2 per cent of the total."

"The original act of 1915 was replaced in 1923 by a new law which makes possible earnings in money for convicts who make good on the road. The credit for the initiation of the movement which resulted in the enactment of this law is due to Julian H. Alco, of San Francisco, who has been interested in practical prison reform for many years."

"The act provides that convicts working on the state highway shall receive a daily wage not to exceed $2.50 per day, against which shall be charged each man's proportionate cost of camp operation. No convict may be credited with more than 75 cents per day. Prisoners are prohibited from doing skilled work or operating motor vehicles."

"Dependents of convicts may be paid two-thirds of their earnings and the remainder is held for them and paid upon their discharge. Earnings are forfeited by prisoners who violate the camp rules."

"The commission has set the wage for convict labor at $2.10 per day, which was the cost of operating the camps at the time the pay law went into effect."

"Under this new law, which has been in effect since August 17, 1923, the average payment to discharged men has been $93.27 and many gone out with more than $100 to their credit. One man was discharged with an earning of $247.77. Average earnings have amounted to 31 cents a day."

"The total earnings of all convicts to date have been $50,110, and the amount paid to dependents has reached $7,973.87, and yet the cost of camp operation is not greater than before the pay law went into effect."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Broadway with its quick blondes, tin horn sports, men-about-town, wise guys and pudgy paps plays havoc with innocence. The young girl who is caught in its cross currents finds the descent is swift.

It was just eight months ago that there came to a producer's office a shy auburn haired girl who had won a beauty prize in her home town in the south. This achievement blazed the ambition for a Broadway career.

Her beauty and naivete struck a responsive chord and she was given a small bit in the chorus. Her life up to this time had been circumscribed to small town gayeties—strawberry suppers, once a week movies and literary societies.

A song writer fell in love with her. He moved in a fast, sporty set and it was among their paths that the girl strayed. She had never had a cocktail or breakfasted at Childs' in Columbus circle at dawn. It was new stuff and she was seeing life.

A friend of her family is a friend of mine. Now and then he invited her to his apartment for a home cooked dinner, asked in substantial friends of his for a healthy atmosphere and tried as a friend of the family to keep in touch with her.

Once she came tipsy from too many cocktails. He tried to reason with her and point out the pitfalls. There were tears, remorse and many promises. Next came a hurriedly scribbled note for a small loan. She had lost her job.

The other day I was in his apartment and he told me of the girl. She had arrived at his place long after midnight in a drizzling rain. She seemed befuddled and finally fell asleep in a chair. Her purse fell open and from it fell a half empty vial of cocaine.

St. Gaudens' famous Diana that has poised for so many years on old Madison Square Garden is to be preserved. Arthur Brisbane, the editor, is to place it atop the tower of the 30-story apartment house he is building on Park avenue and Fifty-seventh street. Mr. Brisbane's new building is to be the largest of its kind in town, and he will occupy an 18-room apartment on the nineteenth floor.

Montreal is becoming a great week-ending spot for New Yorkers. They go in groups and when they arrive in New York and are restored to consciousness they are usually a bit abashed at having invited all the northwest mounted police or the entire city of Montreal to visit them for a month or so.

At one of those white and sanitary sarcophagi that add to the glitter of Broadway they have installed a massive pipe organ and one may order corn beef and cabbage and devour it to the tune of some heavy Wagnerian bit.

One of the gayest of coon shouters is now being billed with the prefix "Mme." She did it more as a publicity stunt. She is large, buxom and thick ankle and has always been known for her rather jovial commonness. But since she took on the prefix her friends say she has become very much changed. Her voice has modulated. She has some grand manners. The other day she appeared in a restaurant carrying a lorgnette. Of course, it is all for publicity but somehow most of us like people who are genuine even when they are in the unreal world of the stage. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

PROPOSED TRAFFIC LAWS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Laws providing that when a motor vehicle is operated in violation of the general motor vehicle law, or negligently or carelessly, and anybody is injured thereby, in person or property, the driver's and owner's licenses may be suspended or revoked and the car itself impounded, are recommended in the report of the committee on insurance to the national conference on street and highway safety, which opens in Washington December 15.

These radical measures are favored as the only ones of a number of expedients submitted to the committee which the committee believes will tend materially to the prevention of accidents.

"It is the belief of your committee," says the report, "that they impose upon the owner, and likewise upon the driver, obligations and inconveniences, the penalties of which neither can undertake in advance to avoid or guard against by means of any contract or arrangement entered into prior to the happening of the accident, and which, in their essential effect, neither the owner nor the driver can avoid subsequent to the accident."

"The trouble and inconvenience occasioned by the enforcement of the proposed measure will affect the owner and the driver under each and every circumstance in which the law is applicable. Further, the owner will be responsible to the extent of the obligations imposed upon him by these proposed laws whether he himself is driving the automobile, whether his servant or agent is driving it, or whether any other person is driving it with his consent, express or implied, and the driver would be subject to like obligations and inconveniences."

Thus, in the opinion of the committee, these proposed laws are bound to have great weight as deterrents, and constitute a threat, with the sanction of the state behind it, in advance of the accident, that certain penalties must affect the owner or driver, or both, and cannot be evaded.

REGISTRATION OF TITLES

The committee also recommends that all of the states adopt the principle of certification and registration of titles of motor vehicles. This is intended primarily to reduce the number of automobile thefts which result in an annual loss estimated at from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

However, many traffic accidents involve stolen cars, for the individual who steals a machine is usually a dangerous and reckless driver, and it is believed that this law would tend to reduce accidents by striking effectively at the theft evil.

Virginia was the first state to enact such a law. In 1919, and since that time Alabama, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Utah and Wyoming have fallen into line.

"It will be seen that nearly two-thirds of the states have not yet enacted title certification laws," says the report. "A person, therefore, may steal a car in a state having a law of this kind and transport it to a neighboring state which does not have such rigid legislation. There it may be sold with considerably less danger of detection. Obviously, under these circumstances maximum benefits are not obtained through existing laws, and the advantage of having uniform title laws on the statute books of all states becomes apparent."

Maryland and Michigan authorities are quoted as stating that a 50 per cent reduction in their losses has resulted since their laws went into effect and insurance companies have recognized the effectiveness of this legislation by a reduction in rates in some states. The United States chamber of commerce is on record as favoring the principle of the certification and registration of motor vehicle titles.

STANDARDIZING ACCIDENT RECORDS

Insurance companies are urged to keep standardized and clearly organized record of their experience of street and highway accidents according to causes, location and other controlling factors. By sending out 2,500 questionnaires the committee secured reports on 1,897 accidents in 244 cities of 44 states. As to the nature of the accidents, these reports showed: Collision with pedestrian, 46 per cent; collision with another moving automobile, 30.4 per cent; collision with other moving vehicle, 10.9 per cent; collision with stationary objects, 5.3 per cent; not classifiable, 7.4 per cent.

Careless or reckless driving was responsible for 32.7 per cent of these accidents and carelessness or recklessness on the part of pedestrians for 23.3 per cent. Both parties were jointly responsible for 18.7 per cent. Other highway users, including wagons, trains, street cars, bicycles, motorcycles, etc., were responsible for 16.4 per cent, defective automobiles for 2.7 per cent, and physically defective drivers for two-tenths of 1 per cent.

The committee found that at the present time practically every company that insures automobiles makes some effort to direct the drivers of cars along lines of safety. This effort ranges from the distribution of windshield posters containing suggestions for careful driving to the formation and conduct of drivers' schools for the special benefit of fleet operators.

Some companies and at least one national automobile association have compiled and made available to automobile drivers an instruction book of manual dealing with such subjects as rules of the road and commonly accepted principles of safe driving. There is, however, no uniformity in the work now being carried on and the committee believes that the insurance companies should and would cooperate in any movement tending to bring about the compilation, publication and distribution of a drivers' manual which would give in simple language and proper for such instruction as might easily be memorized by any one.

On the suggestion that insurance companies rate individual risks on the basis of merit rating—that is, give the driver who never has had an accident a policy at a lower rate—the committee takes a strong negative stand. It does not think that it would tend to reduce accidents, while it would necessitate an increase in basic insurance rates.

In this connection it is interesting to know that when an automobile driver has had an accident he is supposed to be through with that sort of thing for 20 years. That is, one accident in 20 years is the statistical allotment to each machine. Five cars out of each hundred, to state it another way, have an accident each year.

When Shopping For Christmas For MEN'S AND BOYS' WEAR

The safe thing to do is to buy a man or boy's gift from a man and boy's store. A few suggestions:

Shirts, Neckwear, Hosiery, Bathrobes, Mufflers, Gloves, Belts, Sweaters, Handkerchiefs, Umbrellas, Bags, Headwear, Suits, Overcoats, Mackinaws.

Osteopathy

is a complete system of diagnosis and treatment. The Osteopath's education makes him a physician. He must know diseases in their various phases and manifestations. He must be a skilled anatomist, for he is an anatomical engineer, the body mechanic, and his cures are effected by scientific adjustment of body structures. Thus it is clear that to speak of Osteopathy as "rubbing" is gross carelessness of speech, and to call it massage is a confusion of ignorance of its principles.

Used Kellogg's Bran 2 months—constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, restored his health. But read his letter.

"Dear Sirs: This is what I think of your krumbled bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and only got temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kellogg's Bran, and since I began using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better now than I have for three years."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran brings results because it is ALL bran. You can't fight constipation with halfway measures—with brans which are only part bran. It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective.

Because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts naturally—just as nature acts. It stimulates the intestine and makes it function regularly. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will refund your money.

Kellogg's Bran has a delicious nut-like flavor. Quite different from ordinary, unpalatable brans. You will like it as a cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Rex Ingram "Shoots" Big Bedouin Caravan In "Arab" Climax

Rex Ingram's newest picture for Metro, "The Arab," a screen version of Edgar Selwyn's play, ends with a band of Bedouins breaking camp and marching away. The scene was one of those taken at the oasis of Gabes in Northern Africa. Mr. Ingram declares it was the most thrilling sequence he ever directed because it was real.

Ramon Navarro on a white charger led the caravan, the Bedouins riding silently five abreast, followed by the endless train of camels, donkeys, goats, winding their way back to the hills, to the Sahara out of which they actually came. As Alice Terry bid good bye to the children and presented them with gifts, the girls kissed her hand and pressed it to their foreheads and wept quite unashamedly; while the boys saluted in the manner of their race, by touching the breast, the lips, and the forehead. "The Arab" is showing at the American today and Wednesday.

England has three-wheeled autos. London may have a municipal theatre.

"KIKI," BELASCO PLAY, BOOKED

Sensational Success Comes to Ceramic on Dec. 9.

An important booking is announced for the Ceramic Theatre Tuesday, December 9, when David Belasco's sensational success "Kiki" will be presented. For the first time in many years a Belasco play will be seen here, and the engagement naturally is of great importance and one that is bound to arouse great interest among theatergoers.

"Kiki" is a child of the Parisian boulevards, a facile little liar, warm in her affections, versatile in taking advantage of circumstances, acquainted with hunger, quick to defend her rights and oblivious to surroundings when she would avenge herself on tormentors. From the ranks of the chorus she was adopted by the manager of the music hall, and discharged because of her battles with the other girls, she faces the manager in his private office determined to stick with the company at all odds.

The manager, divorced, has been to war and returned to find his former wife, a singer, has kept his theatrical interests alive, and in gratitude he has kept her in the Follies. She loves him and through Baron Rapp, a friend, tries to make up, but the manager is not so ardent and decides to discharge her as being below par as a singer. "Kiki," who doesn't know her real name, is so vivacious and persistent, that the manager takes her to his home, partly to prove to his wife that he can do without her.

Kiki is installed in the manager's apartment. She has refused the manager's advances, but remains chiefly because she cannot be gotten rid of. Her stormy attacks on Adolphe, the manager's male servant, culminates in a rough and tumble encounter in which Adolphe imagines he has met a terrorist. The moods of this little creature furnish a second act of huge enjoyment and when the divorced former wife arranges to call to try again for reconciliation, Kiki meets her and bluffs her into nervous prostration by declaring it is she, Kiki, who really loves the manager, and not the divorcee.

A few hours later, the divorced couple are near to being reunited, when the manager finds in an adjoining room the inert and apparently senseless Kiki, attended by the servants and a doctor.

It is Kiki's last great play and she stimulates a comatose state so well that the physician is deceived. The divorcee is enraged, but the manager refuses to leave the stiffened body of Kiki, and the former wife goes to a hotel, having her former husband's promise that he will follow soon. Then Kiki comes to life by imprinting a kiss on the man she adores. The latter, by degrees is won over to her pathetic life story, and when the divorcee, anxious about the manager's delay, demanding his coming, Kiki, at his knees pours out such impassioned love pleas, that resenting his former wife's language as well, he is induced to caress the little chorus girl and decides that it is with her he will be the happiest.

The one and only company presenting "Kiki" will be seen here, the cast being composed of sterling actors and includes such popular favorites as Marguerite Blisset, Florence, Horne Smith, Loris Palmer, Alfred Swenson, Edward Wade, Max Von Mitzel, Eugene Shakespeare, Charles H. Morrell, Frank McClure and others.

AMHERST.—Charles Jacobs and Charles Kauley were injured when an automobile driven by Harris Plumb, of Lorain, crashed into the buggy in which they were riding. Both are expected to recover.

WHEELING.—A flying tackle by Miss Arnes Meyers, of this city, is responsible for saving Miss Mabel Hamilton, of Bellaire, O., from serious burns when the latter's dress was ignited by a stove in the office of a local department store. Miss Meyers leaped upon Miss Hamilton, hurling her to the floor and rolling her about until the flames were extinguished.

But it has been known for years that a remarkable oil, compounded in Holland, goes direct to the congested liver and kidneys, tones them up, and quickly restores normal action—without the use of merely cleansing and purgative drugs. So it not merely cleans and flushes, but sets the entire system right again. Don't waste time with mere temporary flushes. Ask for Red Mill Haarlem Oil, in tasteless capsules, costs only 10c. For the first time in many years a Belasco play will be seen here, and the engagement naturally is of great importance and one that is bound to arouse great interest among theatergoers.

"Kiki" is a child of the Parisian boulevard, a facile little far, warm in her affections, versatile in taking advantage of circumstances, acquainted with hunger, quick to defend her rights and oblivious to surroundings when she would avenge herself on tormentors. From the ranks of the chorus she was chosen to play the manager of the music hall, and discharged because of her intimacy with the other girls, she faces the manager in his private office determined to stick with the company at all odds.

The manager, divorced, has been to war and returned to find his former wife, a singer, has kept his theatrical interests alive, and in gratitude he has kept her in the Follies. She loves him and through Baron Rapp, a friend, tries to make up, but the manager is not so ardent and decides to discharge her as being below par as a singer. "Kiki," who doesn't know her real name, is so vivacious and persistent, that the manager takes her to his home, partly to prove to his wife that he can do without her.

Kiki is installed in the manager's apartment. She has refused the manager's advances, but remains chiefly because she cannot be gotten rid of. Her stormy attacks on Adolphe, the manager's male servant, culminate in a rough and tumble encounter in which Adolphe imagines he has met a tigeress. The moods of this little creature furnish a second act of huge enjoyment and when the divorced form-

A SURE WAY TO END CONSTIPATION

A well-known specialist recently said that constipation is a congested condition which affects not only the liver, but the kidneys, lungs. Ordinary laxatives merely flush, and do not touch this organic condition. But it has been known for years that a remarkable oil, compounded in Holland, goes direct to the congested liver and kidneys, tones them up, and quickly restores normal action—without the use of weakening salts or harsh drugs. So it not merely cleans and purifies, but sets the entire system right again. Don't waste time with mere temporary flushes. Ask for Red Mill Maltin Oil, in tasteless capsules, costs only 50c. Sold and guaranteed by Herber's Drug Store, C. G. Anderson, J. C. Cornsman, Gamble's Drug Store.

er wife arranges to call to try again for reconciliation, Kiki meets her and bluffs her into nervous prostration by declaring it is she, Kiki, who really loves the manager, and not the divorcee.

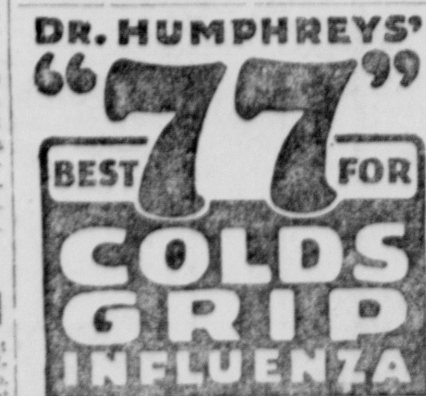

A few hours later, the divorced couple are near to being reunited, when the manager finds in an adjoining room the inert and apparently senseless Kiki, attended by the servants and a doctor.

It is Kiki's last great play and she stimulates a comatose state so well that the physician is deceived. The divorcee is enraged, but the manager refuses to leave the stiffened body of Kiki, and the former wife goes to a hotel, having her former husband's promise that he will follow soon. Then Kiki comes to life by imprinting a kiss on the man she adores. The latter, by degrees is won over to her pathetic life story, and when the divorcee, anxious about the manager's delay, demanding his coming, Kiki, at his knees pours out such impassioned love pleas, that resenting his former wife's language as well, he is induced to caress the little chorus girl and decides that it is with her he will be the happiest.

The one and only company presenting "Kiki" will be seen here, the cast being composed of sterling actors and includes such popular favorites as Marguerite Blisset, Florence Ramet, Smith, Lorie Palmer, Alfred Swenson, Edward Wade, Max Von Mitzel, Eugene Shakespeare, Charles H. Morrell, Frank McClure and others.

He Coughed For Two Years Swore Off

After coughing for two years almost continuously a man of considerable means got thin and tired and worn out, made his will, and was ready to quit the big game of life. A friend spoke to him about Broncholine Emulsion and now life to him is very sweet indeed. That's the kind of a cough that is put out of business with amazing speed when the cougher is wise to Broncholine Emulsion. Tough old coughs—persistent coughs—coughs that hang on and rob people of their sleep—those are the kind of coughs Broncholine likes to tackle. Many times such coughs linger after the Grip or a heavy cold, and if you have one or know of anyone who has one keep Broncholine Emulsion in mind. It isn't just a cheap sweet cough syrup—it's the best cough remedy—and the best is never cheap. Jesse L. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Store, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Continued.

Then, when Dascome had captured the sympathy, not only of the jury, but of every disinterested onlooker, he sprang his surprise; he placed on the stand first a woman who had been one of Clarice's teachers, then Meta Thall, then Mrs. Ormsby.

Mrs. Doane was instructor in a private school for girls and was highly respected—a handsome, dark-eyed woman of about Dascome's own age, about 35. She testified that one day when she went to give Clarice her usual lesson she found Mrs. Dascome in a very excited state. That Meta Thall was trying to quiet Mrs. Dascome; that Mrs. Dascome was crying, "I tell you they are hounding me to death! Ever since those days in Proctorville, they have wrung me dry, dry!" That Mrs. Dascome had wrung her hands and had wept aloud.

Then Dascome questioned Meta Thall. The woman seemed more bent and shrinking; her sad eyes looked vague and her cheeks were thinner and blanched; under Dascome's unwavering gaze she shrank to almost nothing. Though cowering, she fought well, however; she could not remember the occurrence to which Mrs. Doane had testified. She admitted finally that Mrs. Dascome frequently used the "hounded."

Then, inch by inch, fighting both the prosecution and Meta Thall's reluctance every inch of the way, Dascome drew for her certain occurrences during the eighteen months of Elaine's conversion to anarchy; that the wild quarrels during Elaine's marriage to Alexander Karesia resulted from the dangerous people with whom Elaine insisted upon associating herself; that Alexander Karesia was a highly educated and talented man and a conservative socialist; that the warned Elaine constantly that the greatest curse inflicted upon socialism was the criminal who used socialism as a cloak for criminality; that he told Elaine that her associates were bad, criminals—that all they wanted was her money; that Elaine attended secret meetings that debated a war of the Reds, the overthrow of the government, and that, when she became too deeply involved, she fled to her father.

Dascome extracted from Meta Thall, finally, that it might have been some associates of Elaine's lawless days who had "hounded" her through subsequent years. Trembling and shrinking under Dascome's merciless probing, Meta Thall said that Mrs. Dascome did receive letters which she either hid away or destroyed quickly, but, at the same time, Meta Thall clung to her ignorance; she had never known from any of Mrs. Dascome's letters came, Mrs. Dascome had never told her anything about them; she did not know who the people were with whom Mrs. Dascome had associated during her marriage with Alexander Karesia; she knew only that Alexander Karesia warned Elaine not to associate with them, that he said they were bad men.

It was like chasing a cringing, terrified dog around an endless circle. Whether or not Meta Thall knew something she was afraid to tell, Dascome placed her in that light before the jury. When Meta Thall was allowed to depart, she crept away looking limp and sick and vague, as vague-eyed as an idiot. It was evident enough that she was in deadly terror of Dascome.

Mrs. Ormsby succeeded her. She eyes Dascome as resolutely and as steadfastly as he eyed her, her color high. With startling abruptness, Dascome asked her whether she remembered a certain accident to her sister Elaine when they were twelve years old, a severe fall from a swing. There was a perceptible pause before Mrs. Ormsby said, "No, I don't remember any particular fall Elaine had."

"Do you remember any occasion when your nurse was with you and your sister fell out of a swing and was unconscious for some time?"

Mrs. Ormsby's color faded. "Yes—I do remember now. It was so long ago I don't remember much about it, though." She had grown quite white, but she held her head high.

Dascome was rightly credited with being "terrible" on occasion. There was a granite solidity about the man, combined with the dangerous keenness of a rapier, granite gray and blue steel in his eyes. Bit by bit, skillfully keeping the possible testimony of the nurse a sword hung above her head, Dascome forced from Almee Ormsby the history of a children's quarrel; how Elaine had claimed the swing, and she (Dascome forced her to say that she was the taller and the stronger twin) had thrust Elaine out of it and Elaine had fallen, striking her head against a stone, and Elaine had been unconscious. That she and the nurse had been terrified; that they had not called a doctor; that the nurse had brought Elaine to. That Mr. Proctor was away at the time and that she, Almee, had begged the nurse not to tell Mr. Proctor about the accident. That after the accident Elaine had acted queerly; that she seemed dazed. That Elaine recovered after a few days, but that she took a violent dislike to the nurse and quarrelled constantly with Almee and insisted upon having her own way about everything—Elaine who had always been so gentle. That Mr. Proctor sent the nurse away and that when she went she said to Almee, "I won't tell your father on you, but Elaine's never gotten over that fall you gave her."

"Did you ever tell your father of this accident to your sister?" Dascome asked, when he had dragged it all from her.

"No."

"In all these years did it ever occur to you that there might be a reason for your poor sister's erratic conduct which so puzzled her husband and her father? That you held in your hand the explanation?"

"No, it did not!" she flashed at him desperately. "That happened years ago!"

"I have no further questions to ask you, Mrs. Ormsby," he said with immeasurable contempt.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"TRADERS CAN KEEP WORLD AT PEACE: OPEN DOOR POLICY NECESSARY."

Although the Dawes reparation plan has been in operation but a short time there is "more hope, more good will, and more charity abroad" in Europe than there has been for ten years at least.

SIR ESME HOWARD

Speaking on economics in international politics and international trade as a factor for peace, the ambassador also referred to past activities of certain concession hunters and company promoters in world fields, which sometimes have threatened world peace. He declared there is "only one way to eliminate this possible danger to peace and that is by strict application of the American doctrine of the 'open door'."

A Lesson From the War.

"If there is one thing we have learned during the last few strenuous and terrible years," he said, "it is the necessity of recognizing the value of economies in international politics."

Nothing has ever brought this so home to the world as the struggle over the Dawes reparation scheme, which raised the whole question out of the murky atmosphere of sentiment and politics down onto the bed rock of hard economic fact and proved to those interested that it is almost as difficult to receive sums required for reparations without upsetting the economic apple cart as to pay them.

Sense: Peace at Geneva.
"I am, I fear, a natural optimist, but when I read the speeches of the various statesmen at the opening of the fifth assembly of the league of nations I could not help feeling that even those who might disagree with some of the things they said must be convinced that they were inspired with a genuine desire to establish a reign of peace."

"I hope that any reference to the speeches at Geneva, will not be construed as an attempt to influence American public opinion one way or another with reference to the league. Every American citizen has a right to his own opinion on this subject as on every other."

"Peace is the greatest objective of any statesman today. War can only be destructive and ruinous in an ever increasing degree. It is your business, you who are interested in world commerce and affairs, to see to it that your business is not such as to endanger peace and good will among nations."

"There is only one way to eliminate concession hunting as a possible danger to peace, and that is by strict application of the American doctrine of the 'open door,' or perfect equality of opportunity to all for concessions in undeveloped or semi-developed countries, and by a self-denying agreement among nations by which they will pledge themselves not to support the efforts of their own nationals to obtain concessions in such countries."

Cough Remedy Mother Gave Us Still Best

Pine Tar and Honey Best All Modern Drugs

In thousands of families it has been the custom for many years to keep pine tar and honey always on hand for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, and throat irritations. Our mothers knew that it was good, that it often broke up the worst cough in 24 hours, and that it could be given to young and old alike, as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

And now we are told that in spite of modern medical discoveries there is still no better or quicker cough remedy. Doctors say the pine tar quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion that cause the coughing, also healing soreness, while the honey not only gives a pleasant taste, but helps soothe irritation.

The original compound, made up many years ago and used by millions of people, was Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. This is scientifically composed of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. If you want the original and the best, be sure you get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey and no other. Only 30c. at any good druggist.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"TRADERS CAN KEEP WORLD AT PEACE: OPEN DOOR POLICY NECESSARY."

Although the Dawes reparation plan has been in operation but a short time there is "more hope, more good will, and more charity abroad in Europe than there has been for ten years at least, if not almost from time immemorial," Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, declared in an address recently at a luncheon of the New York board of trade and transportation.

SIR ESME HOWARD

Speaking on economics in international politics and international trade as a factor for peace, the ambassador also referred to past activities of certain concession hunters and company promoters in world fields, which sometimes have threatened world peace. He declared there is "only one way to eliminate this possible danger to peace and that is by strict application of the American doctrine of the 'open door.'"

A Lesson From the War.
"If there is one thing we have learned during the last few strenuous and terrible years," he said, "it is the necessity of recognizing the value of economies in international politics."

Nothing has ever brought this so home to the world as the struggle over the Dawes reparation scheme, which raised the whole question out of the murky atmosphere of sentiment and politics down onto the bed rock of hard economic fact and proved to those interested that it is almost as difficult to receive sums required for reparations without upsetting the economic apple cart as to pay them.

"Even now there are many who believe that payment of the sums fixed by the Dawes plan may produce economic convulsions in the creditor countries. Many financiers are agreed that a surfeit of gold or goods may prove as indigestible to a nation as a surfeit of mince pies to a schoolboy."

Senses Peace at Geneva.
"I am, I fear, a natural optimist, but when I read the speeches of the various statesmen at the opening of the fifth assembly of the league of nations I could not help feeling that even those who might disagree with some of the things they said must be convinced that they were inspired with a genuine desire to establish a reign of peace."

"I hope that any reference to the speeches at Geneva, will not be construed as an attempt to influence American public opinion one way or another with reference to the league. Every American citizen has a right to his own opinion on this subject as on every other."

"Peace is the greatest objective of any statesman today. War can only be destructive and ruinous in an ever increasing degree. It is your business, you who are interested in world commerce and affairs, to see to it that your business is not such as to endanger peace and good will among nations."

"There is only one way to eliminate concession hunting as a possible danger to peace, and that is by strict application of the American doctrine of the 'open door,' or perfect equality of opportunity to all for concessions in undeveloped or semi-developed countries, and by a self-denying agreement among nations by which they will pledge themselves not to support the efforts of their own nationals to obtain concessions in such countries."

Cough Remedy Mother Gave Us Still Best

Pine Tar and Honey Best All Modern Drugs
In thousands of families it has been the custom for many years to keep pine tar and honey always on hand for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, and throat irritations. Our mothers knew that it was good, that it often broke up the worst cough in 24 hours, and that it could be given to young and old alike, as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.
And now we are told that in spite of modern medical discoveries there is still no better or quicker cough remedy. Doctors say the pine tar quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion that cause the coughing, also healing soreness, while the honey not only gives a pleasant taste, but helps soothe irritation.
The original compound, made up many years ago and used by millions of people, was Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. This is scientifically composed of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. If you want the original and the best, be sure you get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey and no other. Only 30c. at any good druggists.

Chicago Husbands Save More Money Than Bachelors

CHICAGO, Nov. — Matrimony has its financial advantages. This has been revealed in an analysis of 700,000 tax returns by the Cook County Treasurer.

The first few years, however, are the hardest. According to the survey, the average husband at 24 has 5 per cent less property, money in the bank and other taxable goods than the average bachelor of the same age. But—

When both have reached 28 years the husband will be 3 per cent ahead, and at 33 he will have for outstripped his lonesome bachelor opponent and piled up a 17 per cent lead. After that it's easy, the report says, for at 48 the husband will be 20 per cent ahead.

The governor, in a proclamation issued a few days ago, calls upon county and municipal enforcement officers to wage a strenuous campaign against pistol toting and also the making of arrests through the exercise of illegal police powers.

Police of East Liverpool a few days ago announced that all persons found carrying concealed weapons would be arrested and fined. The governor, in his proclamation, points out that persons other than those appointed deputy sheriffs, constables and special officers, are not permitted to carry firearms.

COUNTY MEETS OF METHODISTS

Cincinnati Bishop to Speak at Session in Lisbon.

The redistricting of the East Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, wherein the county has been made the unit, will result in a number of county gatherings during the current conference year. The first of these scheduled meetings has been held in Lisbon, at which time the county organization was perfected. The county organization has been designated as the County Council and different committee chairmen have been selected from all parts of the county.

Bishop Henderson, of Cincinnati, will speak in this county in February at a county meeting to be held in Lisbon, when the outline of a system of personal evangelism will be demonstrated.

A number of prominent Ohio church workers will accompany Bishop Henderson to Lisbon, and his coming into this county will result in one of the largest gatherings of Methodists ever held in this part of the state.

The Rev. Frank G. Fowler, of the First Methodist Episcopal church of East Liverpool, will address another meeting of the County Council which is scheduled to meet in the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church, Lisbon, in January.

Committees for different branches of church activity have been appointed by the County Council, and they are as follows:

Baseball Experts Select National League All-Star Team

Pirates Given Two, Giants, Reds Three, Places On Outfit

Nomination for Mythical Team of 14 Players, Culled From Six Clubs, Based on Performances During Season of 1924.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — Loaned a semi-official countenance by the fact that it is the brain-child of a duly-constituted committee of baseball experts, the National League today cullied the violets from the milk weeds and named an all-star team of 14 players, based upon their performances during the deceased season of 1924.

The selection was made public by the committee's chairman, Frederick G. Lieb, of New York. With more than a modicum of diplomacy the committee allotted its honors among six clubs, the lowly Braves and Phillies alone being overlooked. The champion Giants got three nominees, George Kelly, Frank Frisch and Ross Young; so did the Cincinnati Reds, namely Eddie Roush, Eppa Rixey and Rube Bressler; likewise the Brooklyn Dodgers with Zack Wheat, Barleigh Grimes and Dazzy Vance. The Pittsburgh Pirates, with Rabbit Maranville and Emil Yde, and the Chicago Cubs, with Gabby Hartnett and Grover Alexander, get two places each, while the St. Louis Cardinals string along with one, Rogers Hornsby, none other.

The men, seemingly, were selected more for their ability than for the fact that they occupied during the 1924 season the positions for which they were named. Maranville, for example, put in all or most of his time at second base last season; yet he was named for shortstop, his former position, being given precedence over Glenn Wright, his young team mate, Travis Jackson, of the Giants, and other regulars at the position.

Frisch Is Named.
With Hollolocher an invalid and Bancroft slipping, it is altogether probable that Maranville would be the leading shortstop of the league, should he be returned to his old post. The writer, by the way, counted Maranville as a Pittsburgh nominee rather than Chicago, for which he has yet to play a game.

Frank Frisch, a second baseman for two years, also was shifted to another sector. He was named for third base, at which position he played quite a few games during his early career as a Giant. Frisch got the call over such a plausible young man as Pie Traynor, who probably has no superior as a third baseman, per se. Frisch, however, is the better ball player and must be given a place on any National League team. Traynor was just a victim of circumstances.

Kelly was named for first base, and rightly so, in spite of the fact that he had his whirl at second base, third base and the outfield during the 1924 campaign. Kelly, however, is a first and a catch-as-catch-can utility player afterward. He served his purpose in John McGraw's plans, but still remained the best first baseman in the National League, if not in the majors. Grimes, a fine fielder, ruined any chance he might have had by hitting under 220, which is hardly the proper capper for an all-star player.

Hornsby, of Course.
There can be no cautious comment on the selection of Hornsby for second base or for any position the committee cared to name, outside of the batteries. Any man that can lead his league in batting for five straight seasons and apply the well-known climax by hitting 423 his last time out belongs on the best all-star team ever compiled.

The outfield of Wheat, Roush and Young is also a worthy one in spite of the fact that, of necessity, it excludes Max Carey and Hazen Cuyler, of the Pirates; Cy Williams, of the Phillies, and a casual few others. Cuyler had a wonderful season for a first year man, but could hardly hope to break through on the strength of a single campaign. He apparently has lots of years in front of him.

The pitchers—Vance, Grimes, Rixey, Yde and Alexander—need no comment. They are the best in the league, without going far beyond the records.

SHOCKER NAMED IN TRADE TALK

Yanks and Browns Reported to be Discussing Deal.

By Davis J. Walsh.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 2.—Until a late hour last night four eminent gentlemen of the profession sat with heads together in a room just off the lobby of the Hotel Bond, official headquarters of the annual meeting today of the national association of professional baseball clubs.

They were Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Edward G. Barrow, respectively, president and business manager of the New York Yankees, and George Sisler, and Phil Ball, manager and president of the St. Louis Browns.

Perhaps their discussion if any, was purely social. However, it was reported that the name of Urban Shocker, split ball pitcher was mentioned somewhere in the general conversation. Sometime ago Sisler let it be known that Shocker had outlasted his welcome in St. Louis. The Yankees hastened to acknowledge the fact that the young man might be tolerated in New York.

The original tip on the Shocker deal was that the Yanks had declined to part company with Walter Hoyt, but might do business with Bob Shawkey or Sam Jones if that proved acceptable to St. Louis. The names of outfielders Williams of the Browns and Meusel, of the Yankees, also figured in the discussion which followed. Manager Miller Huggins, of the Yankees, arrived in town after the conference had expended its rhetoric. "Nothing doing with me at this moment. I'm just saying 'hello' to the boys," quoth Miller.

He made the statement from a room in which he was closeted with George (talkative) Stallings. It was known that George is frankly out to dispose of outfielder Burke, second baseman Hood, shortstop Jenkins and pitchers Horan and Growder. The Yankees can use individuals of these dimensions.

Stallings, teamed up with Walter Haggood in the operation of the Rochester club, offered no explanation for wishing to dispose of such worthy material. Burke was one of the best outfielders in the league last season. Growder was a fast ball pitcher of more than ordinary ability. The Stallings-Haggood combination, by the way, still is dickering for the purchase of the Bridgeport franchise in the Eastern League.

Will Part With Boley.
Incidentally the International League is expected to do quite a bit of business with the Majors at this conclave. Its recent acceptance of the modified draft has laid it open to overtures from the big timers, and some few of its prominent adjuncts may be disposed of.

Baltimore, it is understood, is ready to part with Joe Boley, short stop, once a highly desirable young man. The demand for Joseph is not what it was, however.

Rube Parnham, pitcher, once with the Athletics, is regarded as a more logical investment at this stage of the proceedings.

However, definite action for the most part, was a postponed issue. The following were exceptions: Erick Erickson, formerly pitcher of the Washington Senators, was sold from Minneapolis to Toronto and the tip was broadcast that the next meeting would go to Catalina Island, at the earnest behest of Oscar Kellhoff, of the Los Angeles club, speaking for Bill Wrigley.

Contrary resolutions are expected to be offered by Dallas, Asheville, N. C., and Atlanta, the latter even going so far as to send D. Leon Williams, secretary of its Chamber of Commerce Post-Haste to the scene of the debate.

"Dod" Strub, of San Francisco, has much business to transact, but it will not involve Bert Ellison, his player-manager, at least so far as the Cincinnati Reds are concerned. Jack Hendricks, Red manager, assured the writer today that he had abandoned his quest of Ellison and would play Rube Bressler on First next season.

Rhyme on Market.
Hal Rhyme, shortstop, sought by both Giants and Yankees, and outfielders Waner and Valla are some of Sturb's chattels on the market. The Yanks are said to be seeking Valla, although Waner is believed to be the better prospect. In his two years of professional baseball, he has hit .354 and .326, respectively in the Coast league.

Another mystery deals with the alleged interest of the Giants in Rhyme. They are supposed to have quite a rising young shortstop in Travis Jackson, but whatever happens, John McGraw will have no part in it. James Tierney, his secretarial man of business, said today that John would turn up missing at the current meeting.

In a legislative way the tip is out that the minors will strongly oppose the Ruppert project for increasing the off season major league player limit from forty to fifty men, and the number of years under which a man may be sent out on option from two to five.

Opposition also has developed Connie Mack's plan to have the player receive ten percent of his purchase price. However, there is a possibility of a compromise whereby the majors and minors will split the players commissions on his purchase price to include the ten per cent, which will go to the player.

M. E. Passers Down U. P. Five By Top-Heavy Score

Junior M. E. Quintet Swamps Rivals in Preliminary by Decisive Count of 64 to 0.

Bromby and Allison, forwards of the First Methodist Episcopal church, five of the Sunday School League, got a big start toward individual scoring honors for the season in the opening clash of the campaign last night on the M. E. gym when the United Presbyterian Passers went down to defeat by the top-heavy count of 64 to 0.

Bromby looped the ball for eight two pointers and Allison turned the trick five times. In addition, Allison netted five points, giving him a total of 15 points, two less than his running mate corralled.

The M. E. Passers took the bit at the outset and pulled away from their rivals constantly. The first half score was 15 to 0.

For three periods of the game the U. P. five was held to six points, but counted an even half-dozen points more in the final quarter. Dickey and McGraw were the principal performers for the losers.

In the preliminary contest the M. E. Juniors set something of a record for league teams to shoot at during the remainder of the season when they shutout their junior opponents of the U. P. church. The score was 64 to 0.

The names of outfielders Williams of the Browns and Meusel, of the Yankees, also figured in the discussion which followed.

Manager Miller Huggins, of the Yankees, arrived in town after the conference had expended its rhetoric. "Nothing doing with me at this moment. I'm just saying hello" to the boys," quoth Miller.

He made the statement from a room in which he was closeted with George (talkative) Stallings. It was known that George is frankly out to dispose of outfielder Burke, second baseman Hood, shortstop Jenkins and pitchers Horan and Growder. The Yankees can use individuals of these dimensions. Stallings, teamed up with Walter Hapgood in the operation of the Rochester club, offered no explanation for wishing to dispose of such worthy material. Burke was one of the best outfielders in the league last season. Growder was a fast ball pitcher of more than ordinary ability. The Stallings-Hapgood combination, by the way, still is dickering for the purchase of the Bridgeport franchise in the Eastern League.

Will Part With Boley.
Incidentally the International League is expected to do quite a bit of business with the Majors at this conclave. Its recent acceptance of the modified draft has laid it open to overtures from the big timers, and some few of its prominent adjuncts may be disposed of.

Baltimore, it is understood, is ready to part with Joe Boley, short stop, once a highly desirable young man. The demand for Joseph is not what it was, however.

Rube Parnham, pitcher, once with the Athletics, is regarded as a more logical investment at this stage of the proceedings.

However, definite action for the most part, was a postponed issue. The following were exceptions:

Erick Erickson, formerly pitcher of the Washington Senators, was sold from Minneapolis to Toronto and the tip was broadcast that the next meeting would go to Catalina Island, at the earnest behest of Oscar Relchow, of the Los Angeles club, speaking for Bill Wrigley.

Contrary resolutions are expected to be offered by Dallas, Asheville, N. C., and Atlanta, the latter even going so far as to send D. Leon Williams, secretary of its Chamber of Commerce Post-Haste to the scene of the debate.

"Dod" Strub, of San Francisco, has much business to transact, but it will not involve Bert Ellison, his player-manager, at least so far as the Cincinnati Reds are concerned. Jack Hendricks, Red manager, assured the writer today that he had abandoned his quest of Ellison and would play Rube Bressler on first next season.

Rhyme on Market.
Hal Rhyme, shortstop, sought by both Giants and Yankees, and outfielders Waner and Valla are some of Sturb's chattels on the market. The Yanks are said to be seeking Valla, although Waner is believed to be the better prospect. In his two years of professional baseball, he has hit .354 and .326, respectively in the Coast league.

Another mystery deals with the alleged interest of the Giants in Rhyme. They are supposed to have quite a rising young shortstop in Travis Jackson, but whatever happens, John McGraw will have no part in it. James Tierney, his secretarial man of business, said today that John would turn up missing at the current meeting.

In a legislative way the tip is out that the minors will strongly oppose the Ruppert project for increasing the off season major league player limit from forty to fifty men, and the number of years under which a man may be sent out on option from two to five.

Opposition also has developed. Connie Mack's plan to have the players receive ten percent of his purchase price. However, there is a possibility of a compromise whereby the majors and minors will split the players commissions on his purchase price to include the ten per cent, which will go to the player.

M. E. Passers Down U. P. Five By Top-Heavy Score

Junior M. E. Quintet Swamps Rivals in Preliminary by Decisive Count of 64 to 0.

Bromby and Allison, forwards of the First Methodist Episcopal church five of the Sunday School League, got a big start toward individual scoring honors for the season in the opening clash of the campaign last night on the M. E. gym when the United Presbyterian passers went down to defeat by the top-heavy count of 64 to 0.

Bromby looped the ball for eight two pointers and Allison turned the trick five times. In addition, Allison netted five points, giving him a total of 15 points, two less than his running mate corralled.

The M. E. Passers took the bit at the outset and pulled away from their rivals constantly. The first half score was 15 to 2.

For three periods of the game the U. P. five was held to six points, but counted an even half-dozen points more in the final quarter. Dickey and McGraw were the principal performers for the losers.

In the preliminary contest the M. E. Juniors set something of a record for league teams to shoot at during the remainder of the season when they shutout their junior opponents of the U. P. church. The score was 64 to 0. Horwell registered 14 field goals and Nease nine.

"Ten Commandments," De Mille's Superb Feature, is Coming

Definite arrangements have been made for the presentation at the Ceramic theatre, three days beginning Thursday, Dec. 13, of Cecil B. De Mille's superb dramatic spectacle, "The Ten Commandments," the notable Paramount production, which is presented by Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky. The picture was shown last season only in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and London. It will be presented here in precisely the same fashion as in those cities. The organization carries its own orchestra, projectionists, mechanics, and all necessary electrical apparatus, which insures the most perfect presentation of the cinema masterpiece that may be attained. The full orchestral score, arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, will be played by the orchestra of 20 men. "The Ten Commandments" is a pictorial presentation of the exodus of the Children of Israel from the land of Egypt; the passage through the divided waters of the Red Sea, and the receiving, by Moses, of the laws comprising the Decalogue. The second part of the picture brings forth a modern story in which is revealed the tremendous importance of the ancient laws in the social and business life of the present day. The making of the picture which required the services of two thousand five hundred people, was undoubtedly the greatest achievement thus far attained in the art of the cinema.

Seat sale open Tuesday, Dec. 9. Mail orders will be accepted now with remittance.

"Ten Commandments," De Mille's Superb Feature, is Coming

Definite arrangements have been made for the presentation at the Ceramic theatre, three days beginning Thursday, Dec. 13, of Cecil B. De Mille's superb dramatic spectacle, "The Ten Commandments," the notable Paramount production, which is presented by Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky. The picture was shown last season only in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and London. It will be presented here in precisely the same fashion as in those cities. The organization carries its own orchestra, projectionists, mechanics, and all necessary electrical apparatus, which insures the most perfect presentation of the cinema masterpiece that may be attained. The full orchestral score, arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, will be played by the orchestra of 20 men. "The Ten Commandments" is a pictorial presentation of the exodus of the Children of Israel from the land of Egypt; the passage through the divided waters of the Red Sea, and the receiving by Moses, of the laws comprising the Decalogue. The second part of the picture brings forth a modern story in which is revealed the tremendous importance of the ancient laws in the social and business life of the present day. The making of the picture which required the services of two thousand five hundred people, was undoubtedly the greatest achievement thus far attained in the art of the cinema.

Seat sale open Tuesday, Dec. 9. Mail orders will be accepted now with remittance.

For weak Run-down Condition!

THE DOOR of opportunity flings wide its portals only to the man who is up and doing—who is filled with pep and punch—with rich, red blood tingling through his system. Mountain size obstacles dwindle to ant hills and ambitions become accomplishments to these sort of men.

Where is the employer who seeks the man who is physically run-down? The man without stamina to withstand the knocks and gaff of the hurrying, scurrying world of business? S.S.S. is the long established and time honored creator of red-blooded men. You cannot expect to get very far up the ladder unless you are equipped with a body that is strong and vigorous. S.S.S. will start you on your way. Don't allow the "Door of Opportunity" to be closed to you because you have not the stamina to withstand the gaff — because your nerve power is lacking. Build up your system!

S.S.S. made of carefully selected and scientifically prepared and proportioned herbs and barks makes you fit! Get back that old time punch! When opportunity knocks be ready to answer the call!

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Ends Pile Misery and Torture Forever

Buffalo, N. Y.—A clever Buffalo chemist has at last discovered the right way to completely and painlessly banish Piles forever.

This new treatment to which the name Hamadala has been given attacks the cause and not the formation. Indeed it has proven so efficient that even the worst chronic cases have been completely cured. The price is only $1.00, and anyone who is disappointed with its use need only say so to C. G. Anderson, J. D. Holloway or any other good druggist and their money will be cheerfully refunded.
